REBEL LEADERS FLEE ALGERIA REVOLT ENDS

Cuba 'Catch' Hits 1,000 Reds Pour In Supplies

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuba claimed yesterday that "approximately 1,000" men of the invasion force have been captured and demanded that the remainder surrender.

Manuel Prado, president of Peru, joined other heads of Latin American countries in an appeal that Premier Castro "suspend the firing squad executions." But the tone of Cuban broadcasts gave little hope.

The Russians, meanwhile, poured thousands of tons of goods into Cuba to meet growing shortages. An official broadcast said that 30,000 tons was landed at Havana yesterday from the "socialist countries."

Give U.S. Time To Ruin Castro Kennedy Appeal

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has assigned the top agencies of his administration the job of figuring out a new strategy for destroying "Castroism" in Cuba.

He has taken on himself the task of winning from Republican leaders a moratorium on domestic political argument which could wreck the new attempt before it was launched.

NOBODY KNOWS

High officials privately concede neither Kennedy nor anyone else in Washington knows what the next move against Fidel Castro will be.

Many plans are under consideration, ranging from direct U.S. military action — now highly unlikely — to imposition of inter-American political sanctions, which U.S. officials desire.

STOP DOGFIGHT

But basic to the future, in Kennedy's view, is the need to prevent a Republican-Democratic dogfight over the recent failure from wrecking future operations.

To that end Kennedy has conferred with Dwight Eisenhower, Richard Nixon and other leading Republicans.

NEAR-DISASTER

Highly-placed informants said Kennedy told them Castro's defeat of U.S.-backed rebel forces was a setback of almost disastrous proportions for U.S. policies toward Cuba.

Two sets of studies are under way. One is concerned with a resurvey of U.S.-Cuban relations looking toward the destruction of Castro's rule.

HELPED TRAIN

The other goes more directly into the operation of the Central Intelligence Agency, which is reported to have helped train and equip the 1,200-man Cuban rebel force.

Possible lines of action:

- Naval blockade — in Kennedy's view this would be an act of war and probably not very effective.
- Economic embargo — a partial embargo is in effect.
- Direct military intervention — U.S. officials are extremely reluctant to do this.
- A new anti-Castro operation by Cuban refugees — it must be properly organized and supported on a large scale.
- Inter-American sanctions.

Bomarcs Ready In Fall

OTTAWA (CP) — Launching equipment for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile is now being installed at the Canadian sites at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., informed sources said Tuesday.

The North Bay base is expected to be operational about November and the La Macaza base about six to eight weeks later.

MAIN QUESTION

The main question, however, in connection with the Bomarc — whether it will carry a nuclear warhead — has not yet been answered.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said the Bomarc can't achieve its full effectiveness without a nuclear warhead. Defence Minister Harkness has said that Canadians should not expect their military forces to be equipped with inferior weapons.

MILITARY VIEW

In the military view a nuclear warhead would be required on the Bomarc to detonate in the air the hydrogen bomb carried by a bomber. Otherwise the bomb would explode on the ground when the bomber crashed, thus causing enormously more radioactive fallout.

Space Bid Blows Up

U.S. rocket attempting to boost a robot astronaut into orbit yesterday veered off course and was destroyed. The space capsule from the Atlas, shown above, was triggered off seconds before rocket was blasted to bits and was picked up by helicopter. Mercy Flight Saves Diver From Bends

CAMPBELL RIVER — A wave-skimming mercy flight yesterday whisked a diver suffering a severe case of the bends from a Seymour Narrows salvage operation to a decompression chamber in Vancouver.

The diver, Jack Thompson, 22, of Vancouver and formerly of Campbell River, was spending the night in the chamber — possibly a total of 18 hours — to slowly adjust his body to normal pressure after a too-quick 250-foot ascension from the sea floor.

SUNKEN TUG

A rising current apparently prevented normal ascent from the water when he and companion John Humphries were attempting to salvage a sunken tug off Race Point, six miles north of Campbell River.

When Thompson surfaced, Humphries took his companion to nearby Elk Falls mill for aid.

LOW LEVEL

B.C. Airlines sent pilot Gordon Wilkinson who took aboard the diver and a doctor and flew to Vancouver at about 30 feet above the water to avoid aggravating the victim's internal pressure.

The pilot said the diver was conscious during the trip but was bleeding internally.

'Alert' Officer Tags Cruiser Busy on Job

TORONTO (CP) — A motorcycle police officer was on the job Monday night. He tagged an unmarked police cruiser while two detectives were investigating a holdup.

GEN. MAURICE CHALLE
... 'brains' muzzled

De Gaulle Strength Prevails

ALGIERS (AP) — The generals' revolt that pushed France to the brink of civil war collapsed Tuesday in the surrender of its leaders and the despair of die-hard civilian settlers.

The end came with dramatic suddenness with the surrender of Gen. Maurice Challe while about 50,000 people milled on the giant forum square of Algiers, seething with rage and battling gendarmes.

DESPONDENT

Challe made a last despondent appearance on the balcony of the government building with Gen. Raoul Salan at his side. Then the two disappeared inside and were placed under arrest.

Challe, the brains of the insurrection, had already sent word to President de Gaulle in Paris he was "at the disposition of the government."

NO DETAILS

Then, dramatically, the French information agency announced that the two men had escaped. No details were given.

End of the revolt was hastened by de Gaulle's orders to wipe out the rebels with all means necessary — including warfare — to restore order.

Fate of Challe's fellow rebels remained in doubt, but those chiefly responsible may be executed as traitors.

SUICIDE RUMOR

The recaptured Algiers radio first had reported Salan had committed suicide but the general then made his appearance with Challe.

The generals were deprived of even a farewell speech to the massed thousands on the square.

The microphones on the balcony were dead and their words were lost in the tumult, shooting and confusion of the end to their desperate adventure which came about midnight.

RETURNED FIRE

In the final chaotic moments of the generals' revolt three gendarmes fell in the streets, wounded by fire from windows of surrounding apartments. The angry gendarmes returned the fire.

The paratroops who defiantly captured the government buildings Saturday were nowhere to be seen. They had pulled out of the centre of Algiers earlier, leaving the

Worker Survives 'Human Torch' Explosion, Fire

A father of two escaped serious injury last night when flaming naptha turned him into a human torch.

Taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with first and second degree burns to his arms, hands and face was Bill Donovan, 31, of 2780 Spencer, Langford. Donovan was released 90 minutes later after treatment, and went home.

SOLVENT IGNITED

Mr. Donovan was cleaning a sander in the servicing pit of Cunningham's Service Station, 5486 Patricia Bay Highway, when a spark from the machine ignited the cleaning fluid.

In trying to escape the flames, he tipped over a bucket of solvent, which immediately set his clothing afire.

TOWARD DOOR

He ran screaming from the pit toward the door of the service station.

"He managed to beat out most of the fire himself before he got to the door," related Allan Cunningham, son of the proprietor of the station.

ARMS SEARED

"We grabbed him and rushed him over to a barrel of oil and doused his hands, face and arms. Most of the hair of his head was singed off and his arms looked pretty seared," he said.

Mr. Donovan, a bodyman employed by Jameson Motors, was working on a customized car belonging to Gary Cunningham at the time of the accident.

SHOW ENTRY

"He was helping Gary get it ready for entry in a custom car show," said Chuck Cunningham, owner of the station.

"I was in the office and heard Bill scream. I ran out and saw the boys brushing out the flames.

DOUSED MOST

"I think Bill doused most of them himself.

Laos Reds Attack As 'Peace' Nears

LONDON (UPI) — Opposing forces in the Laotian civil war agreed Tuesday to a cease-fire as the first step toward settling their country's future.

The Royal Laotian government and the rival pro-Communist Pathet Lao announced acceptance of the joint British-Soviet appeal for a cease-fire preparatory to a 14-nation peace conference in Geneva May 12.

AS VICTORS

The Russian-supplied pro-Communist forces proposed an immediate meeting of the concerned parties and said they were approaching a settlement from "a position of victor."

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home said an "actual cease-fire is expected within the next few days."

PRESSING ON

The pro-Communist forces were reported pressing their offensive north of the Laotian capital of Luang Prabang pending receipt of the cease-fire order. This is forcing government retreats.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and President Sukarno of Indonesia joined Tuesday in pledging strong support for a neutral and independent Laos.

"They all think the world is going to be finished. Don't you believe such rubbish."

Old Balloon Bomb Found Near Duncan

DUNCAN — Remains of a wartime Japanese bomb was found in the woods behind Duncan Monday.

Weatherbeaten but almost intact, it was found among felled and bucked timber near Waterloo Mountain in the Shawnigan logging division of Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. by logger Gordon Braithwaite of Duncan.

It was a section of a large type of incendiary bomb floated across the Pacific in great numbers by balloon.

A team of naval demolition experts from Victoria, called in Tuesday, found more apparatus that apparently fell off the bomb when it crashed, including a barometer used for releasing sandbags.

Mr. Braithwaite said he handled the bomb several times after finding it. He said it didn't worry him too much at the time, although RCMP said later it could possibly have exploded.

Congo Talks Shaken By Tshombe Stand

COQUILHATVILLE, Congo (UPI) — Katanga President Tshombe threatened today to quit the Congolese leaders' conference here unless central government President Kasavubu agreed to cease all cooperation with the UN.

The Katanga leader stormed out of the opening session yesterday after charging Kasavubu had bowed to UN pressure. His attack left the conference near collapse.

"I will come back," Tshombe said, "when you are ready to reply to my conditions."

They are that:

- Kasavubu denounce an accord with the UN to expel "harmful" foreigners and reorganize the national army and civil service.
- Participation in the conference be refused to Antoine Gizenga and other leftist leaders.

Spy Hearing Starts As RCMP Testify

MONTREAL (UPI) — RCMP officials testified for the crown yesterday as the preliminary hearing into the case of accused spy Tomasz Biernacki got under way.

The 37-year-old Polish hydraulics expert is charged under the official secrets act with supplying information to the Polish intelligence agency.

Special sessions Judge Peter Shocteno warned reporters at the opening of the hearing that certain aspects of the testimony could not be reported at this time without breaking a section of the criminal code. Newsmen, however, were allowed to be present throughout the day's event.

Testifying for the crown were Sgt. Andre Cote who said he took down two statements from the accused in the early morning of April 8 and later that same day; the arresting officer Sgt. Gustave Begalki who said he first made contact with Biernacki on the evening of April 7 and placed him under arrest April 9, and Cpl. Henry Robichaud who said he was with Begalki the evening Biernacki was first contacted and present during some of the subsequent questioning.

A fourth Mountie, special officer Sgt. John Janicki, was called to testify in the afternoon, but his testimony was postponed.

Shocteno adjourned the hearing until Thursday morning.

Cote said that the statements taken from Biernacki were in English.

Did Reds Steal Canada's Ming Sung Ships?

OTTAWA (CP) — Whatever became of the Ming Sung ships?

No one here seems to know. But it is assured most of the nine vessels, built in Canada, are steaming along Chinese waterways for Communist owners who didn't pay a nickel for them. In fact, it seems Canada has been stung for $14,470,310.

Payment of the last instalment for construction, with interest, is noted dryly in the annual report of the Export Credits Insurance Corp., tabled Tuesday in the Commons.

The story is this:

In 1946, when the Nationalist government still held China, a trading corporation known as the Ming Sung Industrial Co. Ltd. set up a Canadian subsidiary to have nine ships built in Lauzon, Que., yards.

Ming Sung managed to get a loan of $12,750,000, put up by three Canadian banks. The Chinese and Canadian governments guaranteed the loan.

Lauzon built the low-draught vessels for river traffic in China.

Almost immediately after delivery, the ships simply vanished on the run between Canton, Macao and Hong Kong, presumably seized by the Reds, who had taken the mainland.

Ming Sung ceased pay. Nationalist China defaulted, Ottawa was stuck.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Newspaper reporters have to listen to both sides of an argument—sometimes three or four sides.

When the reporter calls on Jack Jones, a partisan of viewpoint "A," he finds him to be a decent, human individual, anxious to pay his debts and make a few dollars, kind to animals and fond of his children.

Jack Jones invites the reporter into his house, introduces him to his family, offers him coffee or a drink.

They talk about the weather or the countryside, or any neutral topic; and then at last they get around to the reason for the visit.

What does Jack Jones think about Bill Brown, a supporter of viewpoint "B"?

Well, says Jack, he doesn't want to cast any aspersions on anyone, and there is no doubt that his opponent is doing the right thing according to his lights.

Old Bill Brown (says Jack) undoubtedly means well. It isn't his fault that he happens to be a cunning rascal. That's the way he was brought up.

Matter of Form

A pleasant and friendly call. Then on to Bill Brown's house to hear the other side of the argument. Of course, it's just a matter of form. Privately, the reporter is certain that Jones is in the right.

Bill asks the reporter in, pours him a cup of tea, introduces him to his wife and his children, shows him around the place, comments on the weather—and at last they get around to the reason for the visit.

"What do you think about Jack Jones and his ideas?"

"Jones? A pretty good man in many ways. Misguided, of course. But it's a free country. A man can say what he likes, can't he?"

And then he goes on to explain, step by step, why Jones is a nitwit—a good-hearted, well-meaning oaf and idiot—who must somehow be stopped from wrecking the community (perhaps) the entire nation with his hare-brained plans.

That turns out to be a happy visit, too. The reporter goes away feeling convinced that his latest host is in the right.

He arrives back at the office, checks over his notes, and finds that both Jones and Brown were justified in their views. He writes what they told him.

Mad at Each Other

Next day, both of them telephone the reporter, in a rage. They were mad at each other. Now they are angry with the reporter, too. He is the scapegoat for both sides. However, it doesn't bother him. He is used to it.

Photographers Jim and Don Ryan want the city to know that they are willing to give a good home to some orphan cluster lights.

They don't mean that their gates are open for all the cluster lights that the city wants to throw out. But they wouldn't mind taking one apiece, and setting them up outside their front yards.

"Both of us live in Saanich," says Jim. "I'm on Ralph Street and Don is on Carey Road. It's very dark there. I think I could talk the neighbors into buying a set of cluster lights each, and then maybe we can see our way home at night."

"Well," I said, "you may be doing Saanich municipality an injustice, but I'll pass on your message."

"Say, we've already ordered two of the gaslights that they're taking off the streets of London, from a brewing company," Jim added. "The company is sending them out to people who apply for them. We hope we'll get ours, anyway."

But Mayor Mabel Won't Give In

By All Rules She's Lost

ALBERNI (CP) — By any rules of combat, Mayor Mabel Anderson should sue for peace.

A petition signed by more voters than put her into office has called for her resignation on grounds of incompetence.

Aldermanic candidates she supported in the last civic election were beaten to the last man.

Voted Out

She's had only squatter's rights to the gavel since council decided to bypass her by voting her out of the chair.

And aldermen put her out of business for three weeks when they voted to suspend council business pending clarification of her threat to call a public inquiry into city affairs.

It all began in December, 1959, when this Vancouver Island city of 10,000 voters put Mrs. Mabel Anderson into the mayor's chair.

The running battle of the axes has continued weekly since then.

Mabel's weapons are her interpretations of the Municipal Act and an arsenal of reference books on parliamentary procedure. Her fighting style has been compared to that of an exterminator moving through an infested house.

She has whistled in police, reprimanded aldermen, smashed council's glass tabletop with her gavel and kicked out the gallery.

Her mouth is severe and compressed but not above a smile if an alderman slips on a procedural banana skin.

About 55

Townspeople say Mabel, a former school teacher and storekeeper, must be about 55 now. Her husband, Bill, a quiet, passive man, attends every meeting of council.

The Andersons live in a pleasant, rambling frame house behind their store. Mabel is a curler—skip, of course.

As Joan of Arc riding to save Alberni, Mabel Anderson choke the unlikely mount of civic sewage. She was against sewers, in favor of septic tanks. So was a fractional majority of the voters.

Out went Mayor Jack Luckhurst, a motel operator and harbor commissioner. In went Mabel.

My Party

"I still can't understand it," says Mr. Luckhurst. "After the polls it was my party everyone came to."

The fireworks started early. Mabel was soon clearing anti-Anderson spectators out of the chamber, refusing to sign minutes of previous meetings, declaring meetings out of order and stalking from the hall, demanding yes-or-no answers from city hall staff and shattering glass.

Aldermen and city staff took to going to Jack Luckhurst's place after council meetings for a medicinal shot and a cry on the former mayor's shoulder.

"We'll get the business done by challenging the chair on each issue," said Ald. Tom Hamilton. "But it will take longer."

It was on March 20 that council moved to suspend business until the mayor clarified her threat of a public inquiry into the way alderman handled city business.

The dispute ended when the mayor issued a statement assuring councillors that none of her statements were meant to reflect on their personal integrity.

The voters get a chance to express their views next December.

If Mabel goes, aldermen can stop taking the Municipal Act to bed with them. There was only one copy of it in town before she took office.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissues on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

'Garage Door Syndrome' Pain Like That of Heart Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

Ever have "garage door syndrome"? I have—and didn't know what to call it. Nor did I recognize the cause.

A most observant article by Dr. Jack Norris of Atlanta, Ga., gives us the name—as well as an explanation and some good advice on how to avoid garage door syndrome.

"Syndrome," of course, is simply a term that means a certain grouping of symptoms. "Garage door syndrome" is well, Dr. Norris explains it:

HARD TO OPEN

The overhead door of the garage is hard to open; this is most likely to occur in winter when there's frost or a storm that ices it closed. (Maybe the door has been left open a good bit of the summer and fall.)

So you reach down, get a good grip on the handle and give the hardest yank you can. The door opens—but that may not be all that happens.

In 10 or 12 hours, or perhaps sooner, he writes, you develop a dilly of a pain in the back. Medication to ease the pain, hot-pads, liniment may all be necessary to let you get some sleep.

Sometimes the pain can spread into the region of the ribs, the breastbone and even down the arm to the wrist and to the fingertips. This strongly resembles the pain that can accompany heart disease.

The physical position, reaching down with one hand and then giving a hard upward tug, is a manoeuvre we don't often perform under such stress. Our muscles aren't in training to perform this precise activity.

In a week or so the pain usually subsides.

Dr. Norris suggests that, to avoid "garage door syndrome," use both hands, and keep both feet firmly planted on the ground, to distribute the strain. And, he adds wryly, "Thoroughly oil the springs and roller track of the door."

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have just been told that my 10-year-old son is red-green color blind. I have suspected it since he started kindergarten but never knew how to handle the situation. Now I'm told that it's necessary to teach my son to remember the true colors of the shades of red and green he cannot distinguish.—B.B."

Color blindness is 10 times more common in boys than in girls and it is, of course, something of a nuisance. There is no cure for it, but the child can be trained in color differentiation. I'd consult an eye specialist.

* * *

"Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter asked me the merit of placing a 'belly-binder' on her baby for the first few weeks. I used one on all of my babies, but my daughter says the latest idea is that 'the navel heals faster and better without one.' What is your opinion?—Mrs. M.H.S."

A sterile dressing is necessary until the stump of the cord heals and separates, and the area is healed. This occurs in five to 10 days. A binder is not necessary and won't hasten things.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Do eggs cause hardening of the arteries? I am 77 and eat one scrambled egg, in very little butter or bacon fat, each morning, along with one slice of toast, a cup of coffee without sugar or cream, orange juice and dry cereal with milk.—Mrs. W.R."

I don't think that eggs in any ordinary quantity will "cause hardening of the arteries," and one egg a day is very, very conservative in my book.

Checkoff

Unions Ready To Test Bill

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia trade unions Tuesday officially decided to test the validity of an amendment to the provincial Labor Relations Act that prohibits political contributions from union checkoff dues.

The stand was approved at a closed day-long conference here called by the B.C. Federation of Labor (CLC) to discuss the implications of the amendment, approved at the last session of the B.C. legislature.

The amendment requires union officials to sign a statutory declaration that no dues collected by checkoffs would be contributed to a political party.

However, the conference called by the 120,000-member federation, made no decision on what form the court action would take.

It has been suggested that a small union should refuse to sign the declaration, knowing it will lose the checkoff, and then test the act's validity in court.

Indications are that labor is prepared to take the case as far as the Supreme Court of Canada if necessary, once it gets into the legal works. It could take months, even years.

Wife Had Knife, Murder Trial Told

VERNON (CP) — A man charged with the murder of his wife said in a statement to police, read in court here Tuesday, he woke up to find the woman advancing on him holding an upraised butcher knife.

The statement by Edward Drachenberg said his wife told him: "Now you are getting it."

Drachenberg, of Kelowna, is charged in the Nov. 10 death of his wife at the couple's Kelowna home. The trial is continuing.

Accused's statement said he asked the woman to throw away the knife but she said: "It's me or you this time."

In the statement the accused said he remembered picking up a rolling pin, but could not remember if he used it or not.

The woman slumped to the floor and he asked a neighbor to call police and a doctor, the statement continued.

The statement earlier was ruled admissible as evidence.

Pathologist Dr. J. J. Prag said there were four cuts and five bruises on the body of the woman, including evidence of a heavy blow at the base of the skull.

A second statement by the accused, taken by Sgt. Kenneth Attree was ruled inadmissible.

Revolt Lost, Leaders Flee

way clear for gendarmes to move in.

The European population of Algiers—almost to a man behind the insurrection—was angry and stupefied. Most had arms, and angry fights with the gendarmes were reported throughout the city.

The rebellion broke out without warning early Saturday to enforce the European population's bitter determination to keep French rule firmly over Algeria in opposition to de Gaulle's course toward dealing with the nationalists.

OTHERS MISSING

There was no immediate word on the whereabouts of the other top generals making up the rebel Junta — Andre Zeller and Edmond Jouhard.

De Gaulle already has opened the legal proceedings that could result in death sentences for all the insurgent leaders.

The 5,000 milling Europeans massed in the forum square about 11 p.m. Tuesday.

TWO HOURS

Within two hours most had dwindled away in despair.

Police in side streets stopped roving civilians and stripped them of their arms. The vast government building was almost deserted.

One of the last to disappear into the darkness was insurgent Col. Yves Godard, a legendary paratrooper.

NOTHING LEFT

He told reporters: "There is nothing left for me but to put a bullet in my head."

The despair of the civilians and the military leaders was clear demonstration the insurrection had been a last ditch effort to stall off de Gaulle's program to bring peace through self determination to the vast North African territory.

MAJOR REASON

De Gaulle's monumental determination and calm had been the major reason for the defeat of the insurgents.

Their morale reached rock bottom Tuesday when he bluntly ordered loyal army units—the vast majority of the troops in Algeria—to open fire on the insurgents if this was necessary to subdue them.

UNDER CONTROL

Government sources in Paris declared "the whole of Algeria is again under the control of the government."

Algiers radio reported that Jean Morin, the Paris government's delegate-general in Algeria, and several other senior civil servants and officers had been set free.

Late Tuesday night, Paris was braced for a possible last-ditch effort on the part of the rebel forces. The capital was under its third straight night alert.

The junta was feared to be planning desperate action after their rebel paratroops withdrew from Oran and others returned to barracks in Constantine.

The French Mediterranean fleet sailed from Toulon for the Algerian coast.

TAKE COMMAND

The Algiers radio station proclaimed general mobilization and "reconstitution" of territorial units in Algiers to take command of army units from "officers who do not understand" the reason for the revolt.

De Gaulle's statements were contained in directives to the armed forces which spelled out his Sunday warning to servicemen against obeying orders from the rebel junta.

IGNORE ORDER

The directives named the generals whose orders alone were valid and instructed servicemen to ignore rebel orders even if they concern the 6½-year war against Moslem nationalists.

At the same time, Algerian commander Gen. Jean Olie made a broadcast to loyal troops in Algeria ordering them to "oppose force with force."

SAILED OUT

Two dozen warships, including two aircraft carriers, sailed out of Toulon with orders to stop any ship entering Algerian harbors.

Earlier in the day, the destroyer Maille Breze fired warning shots and forced the withdrawal of rebel paratroopers advancing on the Alberian naval base at Mers-el-Kebir.

The shots were the first fired in Algeria since the junta seized Algiers in its paratroop coup.

The government, meanwhile, had been bringing NATO troops and armored units home from West Germany and put an infantry division on a war footing to guard against any invasion attempt.

Demobilized airmen returning from Algiers said the rebels were unable to mount a paratroop assault because loyal pilots refused to fly planes.

TWO KILLED

They also reported paratroopers killed a French sergeant and a Moslem soldier who tried to prevent the seizure of Algiers radio when the revolt began.

Information Minister Louis Terrenoire said only about one-fifth of the 400,000-man army in Algeria supported the rebellion.

All top civil servants except those in Algiers, Oran and Constantine sent messages of loyalty to de Gaulle and remained at their posts, he said.

UNDER BLOCKADE

Experts estimated Algeria could have held out for two weeks at most under the economic blockade.

In Ankara, Turkey, U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the collapse of the revolt pleased him very much because it is "important to the free world that France is strong and unified."

France in the Throes

CUBA, Laos and The Congo pale before the extremity that has engulfed France, for the latter is at the heart of the NATO alliance and all Europe would be involved if it were torn by civil war. It seems incredible to read that Paris is once more on guard against invasion—potentially the fourth within a century—and this time by French troops!

Even the rebel army junta which has taken over key points in Algeria can scarcely hope to spread its control to continental France. This would set Frenchman against Frenchman, from which surely the diehard Algerian insurrectionists must shrink. Yet having cast a die which must end either in victory or defeat coupled with dishonor—and the latter seems inevitable—the rebelling French generals have placed themselves in jeopardy. They can hardly hope to defeat President de Gaulle or force a change in his Algerian policies.

Of all men in the world de Gaulle is not amenable to coercion, whether by force or argument, and he alone is the pillar on which French unity depends. The demonstrations in his favor since the Algerian junta declared open war underlines not only his hold on the French imagination but also the solidity of his support. The president may be authoritative and of iron mold but in its heart all France knows he is its saviour. Without him there would be a return to the political chaos that has been the calamity of modern France.

Nor is de Gaulle a civilian president liable to shrink from stern measures but a soldier whose tactical ability seems equal to meet the military situation poised by the revolt of his Algerian generals.

The issue is too crucial for half-measures; it is a case of de Gaulle on the rebel junta, and for France there should only be one answer. There can be small fear that the army in France proper will join the Algerian rebels in disloyalty.

A civil war in France, or even an extended campaign in Algeria inviting the same connotation, would bring about the fall of de Gaulle with disastrous consequences to the West and the whole European defence position. The potential gravity of this French military revolt far exceeds any other aspect of the troubled international scene of today.

The Investigation

PRESIDENT Kennedy's decision to order a full-scale investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency to find out just why the United States government was so badly misinformed on the Cuban situation will be greeted with particular satisfaction by the Western allies.

Though Mr. Kennedy has stated repeatedly that he must take full responsibility for the United States' inglorious role in the abortive attempt to overthrow the Castro regime, it is more than obvious that he was simply a victim of faulty information produced by his own intelligence experts—just as his predecessor had been over the infamous sky-spy incident.

It can be argued that although Mr. Kennedy may have been a victim of circumstances he was hardly an innocent one, inasmuch as his very election resulted in large measure from his cutting criticism of the former administration's haphazard foreign policy—including the Cuban situation.

Yet, having assumed office, he made no change in the hierarchy of the very organization that supplied the ammunition that eventually scuttled the Eisenhower-Nixon team and made the United States lose face before the world—namely the Central Intelligence Agency under its leader Mr. Allan Dulles.

It is to be hoped that the search into the agency's activities will not be restricted to the Cuban question alone, for there is a score or more other areas which could rapidly resolve themselves into major trouble spots—from Laos to Kenya, from India to Korea, from France to Mexico—if the United States persists in following its present misguided policy.

Unfortunately any such trouble involves not only the United States but also its allies—including Canada—and it is because of this that Mr. Kennedy's direction of foreign affairs must be a matter of concern to us all.

The Capitals' Clusters

WHAT is the difference between Ottawans and Victorians?

While Victorians (and many neighbors who don't pay city taxes) have been raising their voices preponderantly in opposition to replacement of most of the cluster lights with effective new lighting, the people of Ottawa have been crying out for more speed in replacement of that city's clusters.

Ottawa's cluster lights are almost as numerous as Victoria's, of almost exactly the same appearance, and of the same age. Both Victoria and Ottawa made first installations in 1910. Ottawa is just as proud of its charm as is Victoria—perhaps a bit more boastful: every year in late spring it sends us pictures of its first tulips in bloom.

But Ottawa has decided to start removing cluster lights on two of its seven main thoroughfares and to complete the replacement on all main streets within four or five years, and the citizens are calling for more speed.

Why? Because, our Ottawa correspondent says, they object to them as "antiquated and giving insufficient light in contrast with the new modern standards."

That reason holds particular significance for Victoria. It suggests that the difference between Ottawans and Victorians is that Ottawans have been given better opportunity to observe the contrast, sufficient opportunity to overcome natural affection for the graceful, although increasingly decrepit, remnants of the past.

But Victorians probably are going to have the same opportunity. When overhead wiring and wooden poles are taken down in some of the poorer-looking, "unclustered" downtown side streets, modern standards and modern mercury luminaries will have to go up.

Then, it seems likely, we shall see a real contrast.

Economic Aid for India

By RAWLE KNOX

WITH India's foreign exchange reserves down to a new low £92.5 million Mr. B. K. Nehru, India's Commissioner-General for Economic Affairs, is now in America again to pursue his thankless task of soliciting cash. The World Bank and the consortium of Western countries that have agreed to aid India meet in Washington. The consortium includes the United States, West Germany, Britain, Canada and Japan; France and Australia will attend as observers.

India's third plan is just starting and over its five year period it will need nearly £2,000 million of foreign loans and grants. Mr. B. K. Nehru's immediate task is to find the money to finance the first year. Though foreign funds unused in the second plan, plus a Russian commitment already made to the third, give India £482 million in hand, most of this is pinned to various projects and due to be spent in instalments. Outside this for 1961 62 Mr. Nehru needs to raise £192 million in foreign exchange, not including the large wheat loan already coming through from the United States.

India's margin is narrow enough. Of that £192 million, less than £40 million is earmarked for new developments in the third plan. The rest is for importing raw materials and spares for maintenance and for the repayment of previous loans. In fact India is gasping for breath and officials of the Economic Affairs Ministry are extremely pessimistic about their chances of getting anything like their requirements from the coming consortium meeting.

There are plenty of statesmen and politicians in the West who publicly wish India's democratic experiment well but find difficulty in explaining to their taxpayers what this means in hard cash. India expects not more than five per cent of her foreign exchange needs in the third plan to come from private investment. The economic climate here now is not one that tempts the private investor.

For the moment straight aid is needed. Ironically the Indian government has little doubt that if a serious economic crisis should hit India this year the West would come rushing to her help. But by then, it is felt, the damage might have been done; the aid is wanted now.

Indian officials consider the American government far ahead of others in the realization that under-developed countries, to gain more flexibility in their planning, need considerable sums in "untied" loans and grants. All Russian aid is tied to specific projects or trade deals; the West German and British governments have quite recently begun modest untied loans to India.

The new White House theory of long-term aid is welcomed. But the American Congressional system (President Kennedy's foreign aid program comes up for discussion on May 15) makes it seem unlikely that the Indians will see the color of whatever dollars they may be getting before the autumn.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes — and ships — and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

I HAVE been reading with interest some PPCLI data on the battalion's Trooping the Color ceremony next month at Work Point Barracks. Military spectacles of this kind are always absorbing to watch.

The trooping ceremony is known far and wide, of course. It is an ancient part of military lore and tradition, and people all over the world have had their attention drawn to it because of the annual parade at the Horse Guards in London each June. This massive spectacle has become familiar via film and the printed word.

In London the Brigade of Guards have the advantage of numbers, colorful uniforms and the presence of the Queen. The PPCLI lack these favors but otherwise take no second place. Their precision of movement and military elan can place them alongside the best at ceremonial drill. And did they wear dress garb they would shine through the television lens as glamorously as any lover of spectacle could wish.

Even in khaki they can make the pulse beat when in good form, and a trooping ceremony always brings out the best that's in them.

* * *

Trooping the Color, you see, ripples a soldier's own backbone, for it envelopes him in pride of regiment and that's the core not only of his loyalty but his smartness. A Color is sacrosanct and no good soldier would have it demeaned.

This is the basis of the ceremony which has evolved through the centuries. Its origin goes back to the adoption by different infantry regiments of an identifying color. Facings of the uniform and of the Color of the regiment were of the same hue. This created a sense of unity and the Color became the rallying point; each man could recognize it and follow it in battle.

To this end the Color was formally trooped or paraded through the ranks for all to see.

Naturally enough the Color thus became a precious emblem, symbolic of the prowess of the regiment. Wherever it moved the battle moved. Capture of the Color by the enemy was a calamity, not only because it struck at regimental pride but because loss of this central pivot invited disunity and a breaking of the ranks.

* * *

Regiments nowadays don't as a rule take their Colors into battle, although the PPCLI did carry its original Color all through the 1914-18 war on the Western Front. That Color, presented to the unit by Princess Patricia, is preserved in the regimental museum and shows the scars of front-line action.

From these historic beginnings have come the modern trooping ceremony, elaborately staged as a spectator event but tied by the thread of history to its initial purpose. The Color is still a regiment's pride and joy.

More than ever, in fact, it reflects the regimental record, for on it is inscribed the battle honors won. The PPCLI Color, for instance, lists ten honors for World War One — Ypres, Passchendaele, Amiens, Pursuit to Mons, et al—and an equal number for World War Two. The latter embraces Sicily, Gothic Line, Fosso Munio and Northwest Europe, etc. Also emblazoned are two honors won in Korea.

The Color to be trooped at Work Point next month is that presented by the Queen in Beacon Hill Park in July, 1957. The Patricias put on a magnificent and memorable show that day — mine eyes have never seen better.

If not spurred this time by royal inspiration they should nevertheless stage a performance to dazzle one's eyes. The trooping is a moving display and the Patricias know well how to carry it out.

In South Africa

Tough Talk Heard Again

By STANLEY UYS from Cape Town

DR. Verwoerd has admitted with surprising candor that South Africa faces a "very serious" situation and that the government is giving its full attention to "mobilizing the country's machinery" to meet internal and external dangers.

This must be a reference in part at least to the nation-wide "demonstrations" which were called for by the recent all-in African convention, held in Pietermaritzburg. The convention did not specify what it meant by "demonstrations" but, in an unusually bold statement, ex-chief Albert Luthuli, former president-general of the banned African National Congress, has called on his people to "defy apartheid . . . rededicate ourselves to active sacrificial service."

The leaders of another section of the Congress Alliance, the South African Colored People's Congress, at a recent meeting in Cape Town appealed in ever more direct terms for action. Mr. Barney Desai, vice-president of the Congress, said: "Tighten your belts. Stock up your food. The time has come." Mr. George Peake, a colored town councillor, said: "When the wheels of industry stand still, when ships are idle and buses stand empty, then the government will have to listen to our demands."

This kind of tough talk has not been heard in South Africa since before Sharpeville. The non-white leaders appear to be in a devil-may-care mood.

* * *

The demonstrations are scheduled for May 30, the day before South Africa is declared a republic, but some sources say the demonstrations will begin actually on May 29, which is a Monday. In other words, the weekend at the end of May is supposed to blossom out into a full-scale stay-at-home strike.

White Capetonians are showing signs of jitters. The demand for burglar proofing and protective wire screening for shop windows has increased 100 per cent in the past three months; sales of firearms to whites have increased since Sharpeville by 125 per cent; and riot insurance premiums, already up 100 per cent since Sharpeville, may be raised again as a result of the recent big increase in applications and inquiries.

Political activity is reviving rapidly all over the country. Some coloreds in Cape Town, fresh to the political struggle, confused Africa Day (April 15) with May 30 and were wondering whether to strike then. There have been rumors that Africans at the nearby township of Nyanga have been buying tins of petrol at garages for mysterious purposes.

Throughout these preparations for May 30, everyone has been wondering when Dr. Verwoerd will order his police to swoop again. The prime minister's recent speech in parliament, warning of trouble ahead, may be an indication that he is ready now to throw caution to the winds.

* * *

In the brief period since Dr. Verwoerd announced his intention to withdraw South Africa's application for membership of the Commonwealth, the whole political situation here has changed. The Johannesburg stock exchange has taken a nose-dive, the outflow of capital has increased, the Parliamentary Opposition has taken heart and is believed to be negotiating with some dissident government elements, and the level of non-white political awareness has risen rapidly like flood-waters in a dam.

Dr. Verwoerd's reaction to all this has been to stick stubbornly to what he calls his "granite" apartheid policy, although he is spinning out some "concessions" which, because they are strictly within the framework of apartheid, amount to an intensification, not relaxation of his race policies.

The purpose of these "concessions" is to cut the ground away from under the feet of his enemies within the party, and also, curiously, to establish his bona fides in regard to the non-whites and thereby to give the British government grounds for restoring its support to South Africa at the UN.

Dr. Verwoerd admittedly made some cutting remarks about Mr. Macmillan and government MPs are full of talk privately of Britain's "treachery" and "chicanery" in turning against South Africa, but publicly the Nationalist Government desperately maintains the view that Britain's action at the UN is still in some ways that of a friend.

Dr. Verwoerd has also threatened to curb the freedom of the Opposition press in South Africa unless it voluntarily curbs its own freedom. And the minister of the interior, Senator de Klerk, has announced that a new bill will be introduced as soon as possible to provide for the control of "obscene and subversive" local publications. The Nationalists have been making these threats against the Opposition press ever since they came to power in 1948, but the new threats, expressed by the backbenchers with greater frankness than by Dr. Verwoerd himself, have the chilly ring of a promise about them.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

A young engineer friend of mine is just home from three years at a remote station on the Dew Line where he was a member of a community of about forty people plus the air transport personnel who arrived and departed.

What staggers him, now that he is back in what is called society, is the colossal indifference of people to one another.

He stood at my office window watching the downtown crowds boiling by.

"Just look at them!" he cried. "Look at him! He's walking along seeing nobody! Look at her! Look at them all! There isn't a single soul among them that is conscious of ANYBODY else"

Worse, he sat on his mother's front steps last evening watching the casual passers-by. He saw people, singly, walk towards each other, pass, and not only did they not even notice each other, they seemed totally oblivious.

"I think," he said, "I'll get back north as soon as I can, before I become numb too."

Numb! What a perfect word to describe the multitudinousness of cities.

Grocery War in France

BY WILLIAM MILLINSHIP

EDOUARD Leclerc, a grocer with the self-imposed mission of revolutionizing France's archaic system of distribution, is now fighting a desperate battle on his home ground against a commercial giant. The invader's immediate objective is to win the custom of the 11,000 inhabitants of the small Breton town of Landernau and force Leclerc out of business.

The long-term aim is to decapitate Leclerc's little but irritating guerrilla army of price-cutting grocers, and clear the way for the large-scale development of supermarkets in France.

Ten years ago, Leclerc, now 34, gave up his ambition of entering the church and began selling biscuits in his living room at Landernau. He built up a flourishing business based on bulk buying, minimum overheads and profits and a large turnover. He works on a gross profit of about 9 per cent, which leaves him between 2 and 3 per cent, after payment of running costs and taxes. His shops are bare with no neon frills, but he undercuts traditional family stores by up to 20 per cent, and also sells many goods cheaper than chain stores. His golden rule is to sell his whole range of goods at the lowest price.

Not content with his local success, Leclerc left Brittany and opened another "distribution centre" in Grenoble. He now heads a network of 175 centres throughout the country.

The government, anxious to keep down prices, helped Leclerc to overcome pressure from manufacturers by tightening legislation against refusal to sell. But in the present battle the Leclerc guerrillas are on their own.

One of the largest chains of department stores has opened a sumptuously decorated supermarket at Landernau with a local shopkeeper as front man. Operated deliberately at a loss, it is undercutting Leclerc's rock bottom prices, and can no doubt continue to do so almost indefinitely. Leclerc has counter-attacked through his supporters in other parts of Brittany. His opponents, however, wealthy, cannot fight a costly war on a broad front. This explains why the main attack has been directed against Leclerc himself, since, if he goes under, the rest of the movement could be mopped up.

The chief of the Paris regiment of nine centres, however, seems to relish the prospect of a fight to the finish. M. Jean-Pierre Le Roch opened the first Paris centre in the drab suburb of Issy les Moulineaux 18 months ago, amidst a firework display of free publicity. By threatening to withdraw their advertising, the chain stores have since kept Leclerc's name out of most of the popular press. But in the past year Le Roch has increased his turnover by 30 per cent.

He is confident that the supermarkets cannot win.

The competition this time, however, is intimidating. Thirty companies, backed by vast quantities of French and foreign capital, are preparing the French supermarket revolution, and have already opened 33 supermarkets in various parts of the country.

This offensive, it seems, will mark the decline of the traditional street-corner grocer's shop, with its gossip, early opening and late closing, small turnover and high profit margin.

The repercussions of the battle of Landernau will be felt in towns throughout France, whoever wins.

Ungrateful Recipients

From the Winnipeg Free Press

IN this country, except for the most serious of topers, there is nothing wrong with diluting whiskey with water; but in Scotland, where whiskey is spelled without the "e", it is considered a mortal sin. It is in this setting that we must understand the plight of the distillery employee who turned the wrong tap and released $28,000-worth of the purest usquebaugh into the waters of the River Bladnoch. The financial loss involved in so serious a mishap is bad enough—enough to make even a non-Scot's hair stand on end. But it is nothing to the loss of face that the unfortunate perpetrator of this act must suffer for being the instrument of dilution on so large a scale.

When Compton Mackenzie wrote "Whisky Galore" (which was shown as a film on this side of the Atlantic under the title, "Tight Little Island"), he was careful to point out that, while a cargo of "whisky" had gone to the bottom of the ocean, it was still safely bottled and could be retrieved. There can be no such retrievement of the unbottled spirits that have gone into the Bladnoch River. The only beneficiaries of this largesse must be the fish.

But what a waste on such unappreciative recipients! Fish are cold-blooded creatures on whom whiskey, especially in so diluted a form, can have little effect. (Is it possible to warm the cockles of a cold-blooded creature's heart?) But perhaps the experience gives new meaning to the saying (until now largely meaningless), "He drinks like a fish."

Letters to the Editor

Discrimination?

Evidence shows that the Oak Bay police lie in wait near the boundaries of their municipality for unwary motorists living principally in Saanich and the enforcement of the law is apparently being used to collect easy revenue from taxpayers who are not resident in Oak Bay, rather than to mete out justice.

By writing this letter, I hope to influence public opinion to the side of justice tempered by wisdom when considering traffic law infringements. Discrimination by one community against another may not be as bad as racial discrimination, but where justice is concerned the law should be enforced equally to all.

In my case, whilst driving east along Cadboro Bay Road and after stopping at the stop sign near the Uplands Gates, just short of the Saanich boundary, I was approached by an Oak Bay police officer who said he had followed and paced me at speeds between 40 and 45 m.p.h. I may have exceeded the legal speed limit of 30 m.p.h.—who watches their speedometer all the time?—but I felt certain the police officer was grossly exaggerating my speed. Driving carefully, on a good road, in clear conditions, I did not pass any school or playground zone nor meet any traffic or pedestrians in the area and there was no intent to break the law.

Despite the natural reluctance of most motorists to publicize their alleged traffic violations, the fact that there have been other complaints to the press, the attorney-general and to the Saanich Voters' Association indicate something must be wrong with the administration of traffic law enforcement by Oak Bay.

If the Oak Bay police were less ardent in pursuing Saanich residents, they could find more time for other duties and the average car driver would have a greater respect for the law and be more willing to co-operate with the police when a real urgency arises.

DENIS H. BESLEY,
Secretary, Saanich Voters' Association (1954).

Gymnasium Only

I would like to clear up any possible misunderstanding which could result from reports published in Sunday's Colonist regarding the Saanich school bylaw.

The proposed new senior high school at Wesley Road will not have an auditorium and gymnasium but only a gymnasium.

The Chant commission does not favor the provision of "separate gymnasiums and auditoriums" and suggests that it is in the interests of economy to use the gymnasium for both purposes. Our committee is in full agreement with this.

S. P. OAKES,
Chairman,
Schools for Saanich Campaign Committee.

Rides Needed

Due to our city being such a fair one to live in; it attracts many retired and genteel folk to end their days here. As a result there are, no doubt, many of these who have come to the day when they are no longer able to drive a car and find themselves lonely and bored with their long days.

Is there any person, or organization that could contact such people offering them the opportunity for a change in a pleasant afternoon drive at a nominal charge for the cost of same?

(Mrs.) R. E. SMITH.

Oaths, Threats By Eichmann Sickened Jews

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Adolf Eichmann tongue-lashed leaders of Germany's Jewish community with "obscene and abusive language" and threatened them with the concentration camp, the court trying him was told Tuesday.

Benno Cohn, last chairman of the Zionist organization in Germany before the Second World War, testified Eichmann screamed at him: "You old swine, crook!"

NEVER BEFORE

"He used most abusive and obscene language — words I have never heard before," Cohn said in describing a 1939 meeting at Berlin secret police headquarters between Eichmann and leaders of the Jewish community.

Another former German Jewish leader, Aaron Lindenstrauss, testified Eichmann summoned heads of the Jewish community in Vienna, lined them up in front of him and ordered them "in very coarse language" to speed up emigration of Jews.

"What do you think we're going to feed your old bags with?" he quoted Eichmann as shouting.

Eichmann, sealed in his bullet proof glass box, smiled faintly and scribbled notes as he listened to the testimony.

Earlier, the court heard extracts from an affidavit by Eichmann's former aide, Dieter Wisliceny, written in a Nuremberg war crimes jail in 1946, charging him with being a "coward."

TOO TIMID

Wisliceny, hanged in 1947, said Eichmann was fanatical in his desire to kill Jews but was too timid to take any action without express orders from his superior officers.

The contents became known of a memorandum written by Eichmann in an Israeli jail last June.

He told how his whole life was dominated by the receiving and carrying out of orders.

When the Nazi regime collapsed, Eichmann wrote, he developed a high fever and found consolation in religion. The "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" were riding through his brain, he said.

Women Win In Air, Too

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board, fearless guardian of the public welfare in aviation matters, has bowed to the inevitable.

The airlines should let women carry more luggage on domestic flights, it suggested. After all, the C.A.B. hastened to explain, women weigh less than men; they require more baggage, and the new planes can carry more luggage.

Flames Ravage Alberta Town

CORONATION, Alta. (CP) — Fire swept through the main business block of this central Alberta town early Tuesday, destroying five buildings and causing an estimated $250,000 damage. Two families escaped the flames as their apartments were destroyed.

The fire is thought to have started in the kitchen of a snack bar and spread north and south on the block enveloping a barber shop, a jewelry store, a general store and a branch of the Toronto-Dominion bank.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Wallace, proprietors of the general store, barely escaped alive.

Moonshiner Still Free

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Skelly Wright found an aged Negro guilty yesterday of making moonshine whisky, but didn't have the heart to send him to jail.

"How can you operate a still at your age?" Skelly asked, but Porter Stewart, 85, didn't answer. He is stone deaf.

The judge handed down a one-year sentence, but then suspended it because "he's the oldest violator I've ever had before me."

Dollar for Dollar Plan To Aid B.C. Tourism

COURTENAY — A new program for joint promotion of tourism in B.C. by government and private capital was announced here yesterday by Recreation Minister Earle Westwood.

The government will match dollar for dollar money put up by the tourist industry and municipalities on a regional basis, the minister said in a speech to the Rotary Club.

* * *

Province To Help Promotion

* * *

READY TO START

"We've been busy putting our house in order with highway improvements and upgrading tourist accommodation. Now we're ready to start a real drive for tourists," Mr. Westwood said.

For promotional purposes, the province will be divided into eight regions—Vancouver Island, Kootenays, Cariboo, Okanagan, Peace River, Kamloops, Prince George-Prince Rupert, and Lower Mainland, he said.

FEW YEARS

An appropriation of $50,000 has been made for grants this year but within a few years, he expected annual grants to reach $500,000, Mr. Westwood said.

Matching grants will be approved for payment to committees representing the regions, subject to certain conditions of use. Main purpose of the money will be improvement and expansion of tourist advertising in newspapers, brochures and other means.

MAIN FEATURE

"Recreation travel by low income groups will be one of the main features of the last decades of the 20th Century," he said.

There is no reason why B.C. can't increase its share of business from the billions of dollars spent annually by American, Canadian and European tourists, the minister said. But the tourist business will have to become everybody's business, he said.

Nine Trips Every Day

The CPR announced yesterday that its summer schedule, effective June 16, will include nine round trips daily between Vancouver and Nanaimo. Service between Seattle and Victoria will resume May 19 with the Princess Marguerite making one round trip daily.

Long Beach Lots

First Come, First Served

The 12 Long Beach lots that didn't get auctioned for lease rights at the sale in Alberni Monday, will soon be offered on a first come, first served basis—three at $30 a year and nine at $20 a year rental on a 21-year lease.

Government officials said yesterday that is the procedure usually followed when they are not taken up at an auction. There will be no need for bonus bids and no competition.

A spokesman at the government agent's office at Alberni could not say when the lots will be available, but thought it would be soon.

The lots are not waterfront, but are only a few hundred feet removed from Long Beach on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

VANCOUVER (BC) — An estimated $1,500,000,000 in new capital is needed each year in British Columbia, says E. L. Harrison, president of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

Victoria Pianist Adds to Honors

Having already won the performers' concert group class and, with this, the Marshall Somner trophy at the B.C. Music Festival in Vancouver, Victoria pianist, Sydney Bulman-Fleming yesterday took the 16 and under class as well.

He studies with Miss Noel M. Smith, 2763 Cadboro Bay Road, and lives at 2830 Dalhousie Street.

In contention with Sydney have been pianists from Seattle, Portland, Bellingham, Vancouver, the Fraser Valley and other points.

He competes in the Beethoven class today and in the Bach class tomorrow.

Music Festival

String Teachers Win High Praise

By BERT BINNY

Great activity continued yesterday at the Victoria music festival with sessions for folk dancing, instrumentalists and speech arts.

"I was absolutely flabbergasted," said strings adjudicator Gideon Grau, "at the number and the response of the youngsters in, for instance, the Greater Victoria elementary school group."

REAL PLEASURE

"There is nothing to compare with this in Vancouver nor with the strings program generally in Victoria. It has been a real pleasure to see such excellent organization at all levels and, in particular, such good continuity of training.

"Proficiency and interest in stringed instruments is being built—as it should be—from the bottom up," said Mr. Grau.

THREE NAMED

School orchestra work has been led by Dorothy Evans, Thomas Tucker and Miss M. Horner.

Brasses and woodwinds were heard yesterday morning, when adjudicator Courtland Hultberg said the eight classes "were a credit to the classification."

Young French horn player Bruce Dunn, a member of the symphony orchestra, led with an excellent mark of 94.

Next highest was an 89 awarded to Gary Brandon in the woodwind class, 18 and under.

Speech arts adjudicator Dr. T. H. Karl had a busy day with 16 classes and 66 competitors. Dr. Karl dispenses basic wisdom as no other speech arts adjudicator in the past few years and it comes from a profound and basic knowledge of this art.

ONE POINT

Norma Smith won the Victoria Toastmasters' award for adult open public speaking, impromptu. One point behind was Irene Warren with 82.

Scores of youthful, barefooted dancers executed a great variety of dances for adjudicator Helen Goodwin and a large audience. Competition was very close: only nine marks separated the highest—Grade 3 from Uplands with 86—from the lowest of 77. Of 22 marks given, 17 were of 80 or more.

The car for people who like boats

A Volkswagen will cost you a thousand dollars less than most conventional cars, and half as much to run. You'll save enough to buy a boat and trailer. (Or a trip to Europe, or the best part of a backyard pool.)

The car you'll get to go with it is designed and built to meet the needs and fit the pocket of the average family. Big enough for two adults, three growing kids and luggage. Small enough to park where other cars can't.

Because we don't believe in costly style changes, we can build more quality into the car. A VW doesn't date and it doesn't deteriorate. It just keeps running around, year after year, looking as up-to-the-minute as the ones in the showroom.

You can expect to get 38 miles from a gallon of gas under normal driving conditions. You'll never need oil between changes.

You can cruise all day in the sun, or dawdle for hours in a jam. The Volkswagen can't boil over because its engine is air cooled. It's far from unusual for a Volkswagen to go 60,000 miles without a major repair.

If you'd like to buy a boat for anything else for a thousand dollars, see your Volkswagen dealer. He'll show you the car that will raise your standard of living.

Revenge—of a Sort

Perhaps a little miffed because Johnny Temple broke up his no-hit performance with a sixth-inning double, Baltimore Orioles' pitcher Steve Barber sent Temple sprawling in dust to avoid high hard one in ninth inning of American League game in which Orioles beat Cleveland, 5-2. Catcher is Clint Courtney. (See "duster" story, Page 9.)

Giants' McCovey and Mays Lift Club Into First Place

Willie McCovey, baseball's biggest disappointment last season, burst back into the limelight for San Francisco Giants last night as he and a Willie named Mays teamed up to lift the club into first place in the National League.

McCovey drove in two runs and Mays cut off a late rally with a perfect throw from centre field to give Giants a 3-1 win over Los Angeles Dodgers and a .012 lead over Dodgers in the jammed National League standings.

McCovey's performance — a run-scoring single and a bases-empty homer, had Giant fans thinking back to 1959, when Giants gave everyone the Willies with Mays, McCovey and Kirkland. But Kirkland was traded off and McCovey, on the basis of last year, wasn't looked on for too much this season.

STOPS RALLY

Mays' great seventh-inning throw helped Stu Miller stop a rally that seemed to have Giants on the ropes. With two men on, one run scored and no one out, Miller relieved Jack Sanford, got Tommy Davis on a pop foul and Dodger hero Wally Moon on a line drive to Mays.

Willie's throw doubled Maury Wills at the home plate for the inning-ending out.

Only one other National League game survived the weather. Lew Burdette tossed a six-hitter for Milwaukee Braves, who came from behind with three runs in the eighth for a 4-3 victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

Highlight, if you could call it that, of the three-game American League day came at Kansas City, where the Athletics pounded seven Minnesota pitchers for 15 hits and a 20-2 victory. Not one of the hits was a homer. In the sixth inning, Athletics sent 14 men to the plate and got eight runs.

It was wonderful for rookie pitcher Norm Bass, who coasted merrily along with a seven-hitter for his first major league victory.

Baltimore Orioles continued to get good pitching, and this time they made use of it by beating Cleveland Indians, 5-2. Steve Barber, with ninth-inning help from Hoyt Wilhelm, threw a six-hitter for his second win.

King-sized Gene Conley, fresh from the basketball season with Boston Celtics, celebrated his first start in the American League by tossing a seven hitter to lead the Red Sox to a 6-1 victory over Washington Senators.

The 6' 8" Conley, an eight-year National League veteran, lost his bid for a shutout in the ninth.

Richest Final Opens Tonight

PORTLAND (AP) — Portland Buckaroos and Seattle Totems square off tonight in what is expected to be one of the richest Western Hockey League finals on record.

The 10,000-seat Memorial Coliseum here is sold out for all three games of the best-of-seven series. The remaining games will be played in the 5,000-seat Seattle Arena.

League officials said the Portland sellouts assure one of the largest player payoffs in history. They decline to estimate the likely total.

Half the profit in the first four games will go to the home club to meet expenses. The other half goes to the players. Revenue from larger games will be split by the home club and the league, which finances transportation and living expenses for players during the playoffs.

Because it finished higher in the league standings—second compared to Seattle's fourth—Portland has a percentage bulge in the player payoffs. If the Buckaroos win they will get 34 per cent of the player pool; 28 per cent if they lose.

The Totems will get up to 30 per cent if they win; 24 per cent if they lose. The rest of the player money from the first four games will go to Vancouver, 16 per cent; Calgary 15; Spokane 6; Victoria 5.

Vancouver Mounties aren't finding hits easy to come by in San Diego, but they've made good use of the ones they got and are now in first place in the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

San Diego pitchers held Mounties to four hits for the second straight game last night, and for the second straight time Mounties found four enough to win, beating the Pads, 3-2, to take over first place.

Phil Paine saved the victory for Noel Mickelsen, choking off a ninth-inning San Diego rally with the winning run on second.

In other games last night, Seattle beat Salt Lake City, 6-2, and Ron Herbel tossed a two-hitter in his PCL debut while Tacoma Giants trounced Portland Beavers, 7-1.

Brazil, France Eye Soccer Games in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Negotiations are under way to bring a top flight soccer team from Brazil or France to meet the B.C. All-Stars here in July.

Frank Bain, secretary of the B.C. Soccer Commission, said Tuesday definite answers are expected shortly to invitations extended to the Madureira team of Brazil and a French club from Rheims.

B.C. All-Stars will meet England's Birmingham City at Vancouver Empire Stadium June 10 and also await confirmation of a match with the fabulous Spanish team, Real Madrid.

Bain said Maduriera is among the top three of the Rio de Janeiro soccer league.

He said negotiations with Rheims depend upon the outcome of arrangements being made by the Eastern Canadian Professional League for an exhibition series.

Football Camp July 1-15

Lions Practise at Courtenay

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions announced Tuesday they will conduct their football training camp at Courtenay on Vancouver Island July 1-15.

It will be the first time in six years that the training camp has not been held at Kelowna.

President Ralph Henderson said the move is in line with a recommendation of the board of directors that the training camp be moved periodically to encourage football development throughout the province.

It was not the result of any dissatisfaction with Kelowna where the club has trained since it entered the Western Interprovince Football Union, now called the Western Football Conference.

The training facilities at Courtenay are excellent, Henderson said, and the coaching staff is completely satisfied with the field and dressing room facilities.

"The enthusiasm shown by the citizens of Courtenay has been tremendous. Courtenay Mayor Bill Moore, who spearheaded the move to move the camp to Courtenay, stated the entire city and district will go all out to make them welcome during their stay in Courtenay.

Vancouver Island fans will have the opportunity of seeing the Lions in action at the intersquad game July 15 at Courtenay.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

WORTH EXPLORING: Victoria is out of the Western Hockey League, and it's almost certainly will remain out unless an established operator could be persuaded to shift his operations here. It would be virtually impossible for any newcomer to obtain players and the league would demand absolute proof of ability to ice a sound club as well as proof of financial resources which would assure continued operation even in the event of a money-losing season or two. Even then, the WHL directors might frown on readmitting Victoria.

However, the league would probably welcome the move if Winnipeg owner Jack Perrin would request a franchise shift to Victoria. It is no secret that most clubs are hoping that Perrin will not go through with his announced intention of continuing in Winnipeg. It makes travel costs almost prohibitive and a scheduling program difficult to solve. And most believe, with reason, that professional hockey has run its course in the Manitoba capital.

That Perrin would be interested seems a logical assumption. His loss for the past season is big, perhaps upwards of $70,000, and his press and public relations, one hears, were never lower. He is almost certainly faced with another big deficit if he operates in Winnipeg.

Victoria offers a better prospect. The loss here this season, a season in which the Cougars were never a contending club, will probably be in the vicinity of $10,000. True, Perrin could not expect to get Memorial Arena rent free but he could just about pay his rent with what he would save in travel costs.

On top of that, he has a working agreement with Boston Bruins which should give him a solid club. Put a solid club here in the expanded WHL and the least Perrin could expect would be a break-even season. If we want to keep our hockey, he's the man to persuade.

* * *

WORTH KEEPING: That we should want professional hockey here goes without saying. This city is fast becoming a desert in the sports world. We have lost our professional baseball and our hockey and lacrosse is hanging by a thin thread. Victoria is gaining a reputation as a sleepy, fussy little village which is rapidly stagnating. Worst of all, we are earning it.

Good hockey is a tremendous asset to the community, and it is necessary for the successful operation of Memorial Arena.

It is not correct to say that loss of professional hockey will not mean a financial setback for the arena. While the arena received no rental revenue for the past season, it did benefit from its concessions profits. More important, even with fan interest low, good hockey boosts the interest of youngsters in the minor hockey program and keeps up interest even in skating. Experience in other cities proves conclusively that loss of hockey results in decreasing interest in other ice activities.

Good hockey here means the Western Hockey League. We might get more hockey without a professional team but we certainly haven't a chance of getting "even better hockey." The suggestion that we could get "high-calibre" teams in Victoria and Esquimalt and "join some league or form a league of our own" is ill-considered. The best we can hope for outside of the WHL is intermediate hockey, and that's a long call from the game played in what can be said to be the second-best league in hockey as far as calibre is concerned. If there is any chance to bring the WHL back it should be acted on. Otherwise, we might as well resign ourselves to remaining a backwoods town in the sports world.

* * *

FACT AND CONJECTURE: Look for George Agar, coach of the last Cougars, to remain with Jim Piggott in some capacity, perhaps a return to hometown Saskatoon to take charge of Piggott's minor hockey operation there . . . Joe Dukowski, former manager of Memorial Arena, has been hired by International Attractions, which owns Ice Capades among other things. It could mean a trip to Russia as advance-man for Ice Capades' summer tour . . . he hasn't made a decision yet but almost everyone expects that Art Chapman will move to San Francisco to be manager, coach or both for Coley Hall . . . holding hockey's biggest bag at the moment is Pacific National Exhibition, which paid Hall the amazing sum of $225,000 for the Vancouver WHL franchise, currently owns nothing but the franchise, some used equipment, one hockey player who is ready to retire and one hockey player who doesn't want to play in Vancouver. This has to be the biggest "steal" since the Brinks' robbery . . . given a break or two and some sensible direction from its directors, the expanded WHL will eventually become a second major league but the announcement that it plans that status within three to five years must have been made for consumption in Los Angeles and San Francisco. Not until Vancouver gets a new arena can the league go ahead . . . and when and if the WHL reaches its goal, Portland may find that it's beautiful new arena, which seats less than 10,000, is on the smallish side . . . with the chance to play in Los Angeles, Marcel Pelletier will probably be willing to play another WHL season. And there's no gainsaying that he would be an asset. In last season's playdowns, he was the hit of the show in the two games played in Los Angeles . . . and it wouldn't be surprising if Doug Macauley wound up his career in Edmonton. It's his home town and the Flyers badly wanted his services this past season.

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Portland to win the first game of the WHL final tonight and Galt Terriers in Allan Cup play. In the major leagues, the Yankees, Orioles, Red Sox, Pirates, Cardinals, Cubs and Dodgers. Batting average to date: At bat 99, hits 65, percentage .657.

Toronto St. Michael's Win Opener Easily

EDMONTON (CP) — Goalie Jerry Cheevers was not too pressed as Toronto St. Michael's College Majors trounced Edmonton Oil Kings 4-0 Tuesday night in the opening game of the Memorial Cup final, before a crowd of 6,674.

Second game of the best-of-seven series for the Canadian junior hockey championship is here Thursday night.

The Draper twins, Bruce and Dave, and Larry Keenan and Andre Champagne scored for the eastern champions.

Cheevers, a 20-year-old native of St. Catharines, Ont., made two key saves in the final minutes but otherwise had an easy night as the close-checking Majors seldom let the western champions get a clean breakaway.

Greaves Leads Exodus

Italian Offers Shake English Soccer Brass

LONDON (Special)—Jimmy Greaves, England's quick-thinking, quick-scoring superstar, has shaken the boardroom boys and top league brass by deciding to yield to the lure of the lire.

English clubs with top talent on their books were shaken by Greaves' decision to join Milan, one of Italy's best clubs, for a salary of almost seven times the amount he earns with London's unpredictable Chelsea.

Club officials fear that the 21-year-old forward's departure for the bright lights and big money of Italian football will mean an exodus of top British talent to the continent—and elsewhere.

PLANS JOLTED

League and Football Association officials, working feverishly to build an England contender for the 1962 World Cup competition in Chile, envision their plans shattered by the impending departure of the nation's most exciting football personality.

Greaves, scoring at a faster rate than any other player in English football league history, frankly admitted his decision to join Milan was made for reasons of money. He said he wanted to earn the money he feels he's worth and capable of earning.

THE ANSWER

Italian football, for all its drawbacks and uncertainty, is the answer. Milan signed an option with Chelsea for Greaves' services of more than $200,000—and the young England star will receive more than $45,000 when he joins the Italian club.

The share of his signing-on fee will be worth more to him than many English football players earn during an active career. In addition, Greaves is expected to receive an annual salary of more than $20,000 — enough to live the footballers' life of luxury in Italy and salt a bit away to build a future for his wife and two young children.

Italian clubs have long been seeking top British stars to add to their collection of international talent, and now that they have agreed to ease import restrictions, will press their search ruthlessly.

No England star is safe. Johnny Haynes, Fulham's masterminding forward and the England captain, has turned down one fancy offer, while Bobby Charlton of Manchester United and Joe Baker of Hibernian were both reported to be the target of Italian scouts.

COMMON SIGHT

Italian officials have been a common sight at English first-division matches in recent weeks and they were on hand when Greaves made what may have been his last appearance for England. They were impressed with what they saw.

JIMMY HILL
. . . 'breach of faith'

The quick-moving Greaves, unsurpassed in England for cashing in on scoring opportunities, scored three goals in the 9-3 rout of Scotland. In leading his national side to a fifth straight victory, the Chelsea inside forward gave what many observers rated as his all-time great performance.

GOOD PLAY-MAKER

Few of the 100,000 spectators at Wembley on that day, including a big group of kilt-swinging Scots, will soon forget his performance. Despite his ability to carry the ball and put it into the net, Greaves has developed over the season into a better-than-average play-maker.

Greaves dropped his bombshell only three days before the 92 league clubs met to decide the future of English football—whether to pay their players more money as well as give them basic contract freedom.

LITTLE IMPRESSION

The apparent departure of Greaves made little impression on the clubs. They agreed to unlimited maximum salary demanded by the 2,700-strong Professional Footballers' Association but rejected an earlier agreement to yield firm control of their players.

Bearded Jimmy Hill, who leads the players' union, accused the clubs of a "breach of faith" in repudiating the agreement reached three months ago on the eve of a strike deadline called by his organization.

OLD RULE

League secretary Alan Hardaker claimed the players had "misunderstood" the new football charter drawn up by both sides and agreed on in the presence of a government conciliation officer. "We will stick by the old rule (on player contracts) come what may," he declared.

There appears little doubt that the clubs went back on their word and the advantage now lies with the players' union as a new round of negotiation begins in an effort to settle the dispute.

Olympian Swims Here

Mary Stewart, a 14-year-old hailed as the greatest swimmer in Canada, heads a star-studded entry for the spring block of the B.C. swimming championships Saturday at Crystal Garden.

Miss Stewart made possibly the biggest news of anyone on the Canadian Olympic Games team last year. Rated as a future star who wouldn't do anything on the trip, she was the only Canadian girl to reach a final in any event, finishing eighth in the 100-yard free-style.

She will be swimming for the Canadian Dolphin Swimming Club along with her sister, Helen Hunt, one of Canada's British Empire Games team.

BIG PROBLEM

A total of 33 swimming events and eight diving competitions are scheduled, and officials are currently figuring how to get the more than 300 entrants in competition in the one-day meet.

Heats will be held from 10.30 a.m. to approximately 1 p.m., with the diving events to start immediately after. Finals in all events are scheduled from 5.30 to 8 p.m.

Among the other highly-regarded swimmers entered from Vancouver are Aldy Meinhardt, Dave Smith, and Enid and Steve Cazalet. Teams competing are from the Victoria Flying Y Club, which sponsors the meet; Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club, Jerico Hills High School, Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, Vancouver Y, and the Canadian Dolphin Club.

Canadian diving champion Irene MacDonald is not entered, but will give a diving exhibition during the finals.

One of the most pleasant up-Island trips of the year is the one in April when we visit all the resorts and weighmasters on the Island to explain about the up-coming King Fisherman contest, which this year starts next Saturday.

It is the time of year we renew old acquaintances, listen to their plans and try to make arrangements to come back and stay a little longer at the peak of their season.

These trips have their sad moments too. This year several of our old friends have died unexpectedly and at too young an age—Ann Stanley of the Elk Hotel, Joe Iaci of the Willows Hotel, Stan Holm of Ucluelet and Ken McLaughlin who had been with the Gone Fishin' Camp.

Eve Lumb of Norquay Court at Qualicum Bay had just got out of hospital following a serious operation, but is now on the road to recovery, although treatments will continue.

* * *

Otherwise the Island was bursting into life at every resort and community. Optimism was the keynote.

Pitt and Bill Clayton grumbled a little about the windy weather, but are right in the middle of what looks like a top notch blueback season. They have expanded their tenting facilities.

Walt and Betty Gwyer swing into real action May 1 at French Creek . . . Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gregory have sold the Ravine at Qualicum to Martin Lukaitis who was busy making renovations . . . Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Hynes of Shady Rest were scraping and painting boats . . . Al Wilson of Qualicum Beach had bad luck when floods caused several thousands of dollars damage to his new fishing resort, but he will be open for business again this year . . . The Harrisons of Green Gables Resort at Qualicum Bay will have their boat ramp in soon . . . the new Island Highway which will bypass the resort area of Qualicum Beach, is now gravelled and may be travelled upon . . . the Stop and Shop Store at Fanny Bay had burned to the ground . . . Randy Klaver of Royston will again give water skiing instruction to his resort guests at Lynn-Maur . . .

* * *

Lorne Simpson has moved his marine supply store to a new location at the top end of Courtenay's main street . . . Martin Brazzell has bought the Elk Hotel at Comox from Bob Stanley and moves in May 1 . . . Alf and Wilma Wilson have sold King Cohoe Resort at Little River and new owners Bill and Jean Fleming and Tom and Evelyn Hay were busy pouring cement for a new boat launching ramp. They will improve tenting facilities . . . Young Don Morrison of Little River Fishing Camp could hardly wait to get salmon fishing with his new aluminum boat, hidden weight prize in last year's King Fisherman contest.

George Bates is building a bull session room, decorated with a marine setting, for use of camp guests . . . R. A. King of Miracle Beach Store was installing a freezer to give a better ice service to Miracle Beach campers . . . Jack Finnerty is building an outdoor dance floor for his campers at Saratoga Beach . . . Vern and Pat George hve renamed their Plaxton's Retreat resort to Killarney Resort . . . Also on Saratoga Beach, Pete Nickolaison has bought Silver Sands from Wayne Arnold.

Bob Tremblay of Oyster Bay was building a new dolly for his boat launching ramp which is one of the few that will take the biggest of pleasure boats . . . Earl and Hester Brooks of Shelter Point were planning a paint-up campaign . . . A. Wasmuth of Vancouver has bought Shelter Point Motel, which will be managed by Ray Olafson . . . Cec and Ken Galloway of Driftwood Beach Trailer Park had just welcomed their first American trailerites — Henry and Elna Jensen, of Palo Alto, who have been visiting Campbell River for 13 years and stay six months each year . . . Ken and Rita Cosby were expecting Palm Spring trailerites Ed and Louise Clement to check in any day.

Ted Smitheringale of Painter's Lodge offered to treat King Fisherman prizewinners to a weekend at the lodge, as did Mrs. J. Forbes of Forbes Landing on Lower Campbell Lake . . . Jim Boulding has his Buttle Lake Strathcona Lodge in full operation as did A. W. Walker of Last Chance Boat Rentals . . . Lucy Russell of the Dolphins wanted one of her guests to be Tyee Man this year, but we couldn't promise any help . . . Jack Larocque of Cameron Lake Chalet was flooded out last winter, but members of the Alberni Valley fly fishing club helped him clean up the camping area.

Axel Johnson of Klitsa Lodge on Sproat Lake was adding a dine and dance room to the lodge . . . Joe Van Bergen of Hillside Resort on Sproat Lake had a new camping area under construction . . . Bob Oha and Pete Anderson of The Ark Resort on Great Central Lake were getting cabins aprucred up, ready for towing to the lake camp, 25 miles up the lake . . . Walter Guppy of Tofino volunteered to look after the west coast weigh-stations . . . Jack Moraes of Long Beach Cabins was attending an auction of west coast properties.

Junior Track Events Spice Highland Games

Track and field events at the junior age level will highlight the city's Highland games, to be held July 29.

Victoria Highland Games Association executive has decided to sponsor the Junior Olympic League, being fostered in Victoria by Terry Tobacco, famed Olympic star now instructing in physical education at Oak Bay Junior High School, and Bill Garner, in the same position at Lansdowne Junior High.

The junior league, the association feels, may help fill a gap that has given Canada something of a scarcity of top athletes for British Empire and Olympic Games, and is deserving of full support.

This year the games will return to their old stamping ground: Macdonald Park. They will feature in addition the traditional Scottish contests, dancing and piping.

'Usually at His Back'
Ordered to Throw Duster

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jim Brosnan, veteran relief pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, says that on occasion he has been ordered to hit a batter deliberately and has done it.

This statement by the National League twirler was carried in a copyright Herald-Express story by John B. Old.

Brosnan, asked if he had deliberately hit a batter, replied: "I have."

Asked why, he said: "I was told to."

Old asked: "Then managers, upon occasion, do order their pitchers to deliberately hit a batter, but not with the idea of permanently injuring a player?"

"That's right," replied Brosnan.

"Where do you try to hit them—in the shoulder, hips or legs?" he was asked.

"Usually at his back," said the bespectacled Brosnan. "The worst that could happen would be a cracked rib, but I can't throw that hard."

Brosnan, who has played for the Chicago Cubs, St. Louis Cardinals and Reds, didn't name who ordered him to hit batters.

South Africa Faces Horror Of Bloodshed

Innocent Will Suffer Communism May Reign

By SYDNEY WILLIAMS

(Last of a Series)

It was reported at home in Canada that as I left after a month in South Africa I charged at a staring minor white official and offered to hit him.

A group of friends, both black and white, had come to see me away at the airport. A white policeman loitering nearby stared at me.

There was contempt and insolence in his eyes which asked why was I, a Negro, being given a farewell as if I were actually somebody important.

I walked toward him and asked, "What are you staring at?"

He replied, "You."

The reports say I raised my umbrella as if to strike him and angrily denounced him as being rude. That is probably true; I was never so angry in my life.

But it was not anger at my own experiences.

It was because of the oppression, injustice, inhumanity and poverty imposed on a captive population by an arrogant, rich minority.

The tension that grips all South Africa had me, too.

But looking back on the troubles which beset that country, maybe the economic crisis will be the salvation of that sad and bitter land.

All those I spoke to during my last few days in South Africa—the days that followed the country's withdrawal from the Commonwealth—were sure the economic crisis would come.

For the privileged whites, it has been a country of opulence and privilege for a long time.

If their secure economic position is shaken, it might alter their attitude toward apartheid.

Economic Division

Peculiarly, the country is divided by its economic sectors. The so-called English whites form the core of the gold, diamond and copper based wealth. The Afrikaner, or Boer, population, maintains the agricultural industry.

The former shudders at thought of decline in stock-market values. The latter depends on markets for his wares.

Typical of the latter is the production of mealies, the grain known in America as Indian corn and which forms the basic diet of native Africa. South Africa, with its highly developed agriculture, produced much of the mealies eaten elsewhere in Africa.

I talked to a dealer in mealies. He had 1,000,000 bags, he said, for which markets must be found. Countries such as Ghana had already barred entry to them. If all Africa did so, the Afrikaner farmer would suffer, he said. He added, grimly, "and even if I am wiped out it won't break my heart if they do."

How South Africa itself felt about a boycott of its wares was difficult to say.

Courageous Alan Paton, brilliant author and leader of the small Liberal political group, advocates a boycott, and took the position that only when the Afrikaner farmer suffered would the government be weakened.

When it was protested that the first victim would be the black farm workers, Paton retorts:

"Do not believe it. These people have suffered and live on the thin edge of starvation. They know how to survive and they will in their desire to win freedom."

Financial leaders have said for years that the racial program has slowed the inflow of investment capital upon which South Africa's previously buoyant and expanding economy had developed.

But should these feelings be translated into international boycott as proposed in the demand for United Nations sanctions?

Too Much Like Revenge

I hope not. This smacks too much, in my opinion, of vengeance, of unthinking retaliation.

How much better would it be if the moral influence of the world could bring about a change in the little nation's racial policies.

Despite my own bitterness, I hope this can occur. And I have lots of reason for bitterness.

For instance, almost on the eve of my departure the Afrikaner newspaper Die Burger quoted me as saying I was "everything but a friend of the white man."

Yet on countless occasions I had said that "I hate apartheid because it stinks to heaven, but most white men do not support it.

"The white man has a place in Africa. I shall do all I can to destroy apartheid, but I will also always defend the right of the white man to have his place here."

The great question is, how will non-whites obtain freedom and equality? By slow and lawful evolution?

Not as long as the Afrikaans element of the population can retain its grip.

This is why I have said I believe the racial strife, not at the polls, but in the streets and in the full terror and horror of savage bloodshed, lies ahead for South Africa.

In that process two great and terrible dangers will arise.

First will be the suffering of the very large body of good South African white men and women who deplore the government's policies but feel powerless to do anything about them.

The second could be, and probably will be, the triumph of communism.

If the West fails to force South Africa to alter its course, communism is the alternative to which a largely illiterate, depressed and desperate people will turn for aid. Communism awaits eagerly that appeal.

Little English Daisy

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

If you are as fond as I am of the little English daisy, Bellis perennis, this is a good time to start scouting around for seeds of interesting varieties. These are true perennial plants and consequently the seeds may be sown any time through the summer, but I think there is some advantage in getting them in during the month of May. Given an early start, you have sturdy little plants for setting out in their flowering position in the fall.

The flowers, in case you haven't met Bellis, are like small double asters, two to three inches across, in shades of pink, red and white, with one rare yellow variety. Some are fluffy and ball-shaped, some have quilled petals. The plants stand only six inches tall and, while most effective on their own, they are even more charming, I think, when alternated with pansies.

★ ★ ★

While ordinarily sold in mixtures, seeds are available in named varieties and some of the best are Crimson Ball, Rose Ball, Salmon Ball and White Ball, all of the Ernorma class, producing their earliest flowers some 2½ to three inches across, although the later blooms are smaller.

The Monstrosa class blooms earlier than the Enorma and with somewhat longer stems. These are available in dark red, rose and white. Tubulosa Etna Red is a little honey, with petals as quilled as a Chrysanthemum. Yellow Giant, also with quilled petals, is difficult to come by; the only catalogue in which I have seen these rare seeds listed is George W. Park Co. of Greenwood, South Carolina.

The trick with Bellis is to sow on firm ground and cover very shallowly —a bare ¼-inch deep. The seeds are erratic in germination, taking anywhere from six days to three weeks to come up. A coldframe is advisable, more for the conservation of moisture and protection from heavy rain than from any lack of hardiness, or failing this, cover your sowing with old seed flats or shallow boxes with the bottom knocked out and cheesecloth or plastic film substituted.

★ ★ ★

The idea here is to give the little seedlings a bit of protection from mud-spashing, for this is one thing the English daisy cannot tolerate. Even adult plants suffer and have been known to die as a result of soil in the growing point, and watering should be done very gently at all times. When using the seed flat protectors, better switch from plastic to cheesecloth as the sun grows hotter to avoid cooking the little seedlings— cheesecloth breaks the force of rain very effectively while still admitting plenty of air.

A most interesting present arrived at our house a couple of weeks ago— a collection of earwig traps—sent by an anonymous reader in Port Albern! who signs himself Amateur Gardener.

These are blocks of cedar, each one seven inches long, 3½ wide and ¾ inch thick. In one face of each block, four grooves have been routed out, ½ inch wide by ⅝ deep. The donor, in his accompanying letter, gives the following instructions:

"Put them out in the garden, grooved side down, where the pests gather, and especially under plants, they have a particular fancy for. Each morning, shake them out in a pan containing fairly warm water— they will die immediately. Often there are as many as a hundred earwigs in each trap and I have found them most effective."

I haven't seen any earwigs yet this year, but I intend to put these grooved cedar blocks to good use. They look most enticing and I think that, if I were one of these nocturnal creatures, I couldn't resist crawling into one of these cosy hidey-holes when daybreak exposed me to my natural enemies.

Tight, Ironic Film Package

Italian decadence is the fashionable note being struck in the film palaces, there being two exhibits on display — "L'Avventura" which arrived first and Federico Fellini's "La Dolce Vita" which has been an enormous hit in Europe and may be the first movie to break the language barrier in a really big way.

"La Dolce Vita" reminds me strongly in tone of Aldous Huxley's early novels, especially "Point Counterpoint." The predominant note is one of strong irony with tremendous contrasts between good and bad. The opening scene sets the theme precisely. A helicopter is shown carrying a huge white figure of Christ swiftly and obscenely over the ancient spires of Rome, followed by another helicopter full of journalists and photographers.

★ ★ ★

The helicopters pass over a gaggle of sunbathing, almost naked girls who shout up at the journalists: "Where are you taking Him?" "To the Pope," replies the journalist—and tries to get the girls' phone numbers. And there you have it—Christ, blatant sexuality, and the more outrageous forms of modern publicity at its worst—all in one tight, ironic package.

And off we go to a nightclub, to parties, to an attempted suicide, a real one, coupled with the murder of children, to numerous seductions.

★ ★ ★

The hero (if hero is quite the word) is Marcello, who is described as a "third-rate journalist," covering the nightclubs, the gossip, the arrival of a Hollywood star (Anita Ekberg), the dregs. I'm not a little alarmed at the change in attitude toward journalists in the films. We used to be drunken clowns. Now the journalist's role has turned sinister, if not downright vicious.

★ ★ ★

Surrounding the journalist (Marcello Mastroianni) are clouds of photographers like a pack of mongrel dogs, snapping, pushing, snarling, growling, and utterly inhuman on the fringes of celebrity. There is no strong central plot line which seems so indispensable to American movies and which are becoming so tiresomely predictable when not downright childish.

★ ★ ★

There are scenes of unutterable brilliance. My favorite is a party scene when an heiress leads the journalist to a whispering gallery, leaves him alone, and then far down a hall, whispers a proposal of marriage into an urn which carries it back to Marcello, all by himself sitting in a gilt chair in an empty room. He doesn't know where she is and he treats the proposal at first lightly, telling her she's drunk. Bit by bit, he gets interested, quite intrigued. But by then she has left casually with someone else. Marcello has not only lost the girl; he's in an empty room.

★ ★ ★

The big scene, an enormous one, concerns a couple of lying children who claim to see the Virgin Mary, and make howling idiots of thousands of their elders in a drenching rainstorm—a scene that is an amalgam of Mr. Huxley and Cecil B. De Mille. It's a huge cast, incidentally. The credit sheets list 121 actors, and that's not counting extras.

Does all this add up to the masterpiece its publicists claim it is? I don't know. It expresses the temper of the times more vividly and succinctly than anything I have seen, certainly in the movies. Fellini's people, even when he's decrying the emptiness of Roman life, are at all times alive.

Suzy Saved by Gong

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Lovely model-star Suzy Parker was saved by the gong from yet another suspension when producer Jerry Wald decided to abandon his "High Heels" production. Suzy will return to Hollywood only for a really important role. And "High Heels" just doesn't sound important.

An Italian lady correspondent asked Mickey Rooney what his hobbies were. "Well," replied Mickey, "I've been married five times. The Mick has to keep hopping to pay various alimonies and child support. His next movie is "Bottletop," for Joe Pasternak.

Director George Sidney, wife Lillian Burns and I discussed the choked-up speech made by Jimmy Stewart when he accepted Gary Cooper's special Oscar last Monday for the ailing star. Actually this was Hollywood's first realization that the beloved Gary was seriously ill. Jimmy didn't mean to be so emotional. I know.

Talking of Oscars—and it always takes a couple of weeks to stop it, Jerry Lewis is still upset with the Academy. When it was decided to give Stan Laurel an Oscar, the comedian asked Jerry, who has been a great friend and kept in touch with him through the years, to accept the award for him. But the Academy passed up Jerry in favor of Danny Kaye who is not at all close to Laurel.

Columbia is having difficulty with the proposed Mario Lanza film biography. There are so many people involved and they must all sign clearances. This is why the Jack Dempsey story has not yet reached the screen. A pity. Both stories would make good movies.

Red's View of Canadians

The More the Quieter

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadians are quiet, reserved and shy, a visiting Russian school teacher said Monday.

"You are a very sober people," Gregory Varius told a press conference at the University of British Columbia.

"There's no music in restaurants, no singing in the streets," he said.

★ ★ ★

One Frenchman was an individual, two Frenchmen a society and three a revolution, Mr. Varius said.

But one Canadian was quiet, two Canadians were quiet, and three still quiet.

With Mr. Varius as guests of the Canadian Teachers' Federation are Mrs. Lydia Shouprakova, president of the 2,000,000-strong Russian teachers organization, and Sergei Zavoloka, a language teacher from the Ukraine.

Varius, a high school teacher from Odessa, found a six-year-old Vancouver boy's skill with arithmetic problems involving fractions more surprising than the reserve of Canadians.

★ ★ ★

"I don't know how you do it," he said. "This would be done in fourth or fifth grade in Russia."

Comment followed Grade 1 student Lindsey Mann's demonstration on a classroom blackboard of his ability to work out tough fractions.

★ ★ ★

Ian Boyd, principal of Queen Elizabeth School attended by Lindsey, said his class received the Cuisenaire method of arithmetic instruction, a system involving use of colored wooden blocks to teach fractions.

"We weren't putting on any special show for the Russians," Mr. Boyd said.

Added teacher Mrs. Ann Baxter: "All the children can do it."

Money Shift Fought By Canada Council

OTTAWA (CP)—The chairman of the Canada Council said Tuesday he opposes diverting part of the council's capital development fund into scholarships.

While continuing to emphasize the need for more money to train teachers, Dr. Claude Bissell told the Commons public accounts committee he considers it essential to maintain the council's university construction program.

Dr. Bissell has repeatedly stated the council needs more money if it is to discharge its task in the academic field. It has funds enough to grant only one in four applications.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS

Miniature Railroad for City?

City parks chairman Ald. Millard Mooney said yesterday he will recommend to his committee that they consider Holland Point as the site for a miniature railway.

He said two city businessmen have offered to underwrite the $10,000 deal to install a miniature steam locomotive which will pull cars carrying up to 24 children. The train would operate along 1,000 feet of track.

The backers of the scheme would operate the train and share revenue from it with the city, he said.

"They are interested only in getting their money back."

He will ask the parks committee to consider terms of an agreement with the prospective buyers of the train.

The engine, its cars and a station were built in Mission by a retired railroader.

No Hockey Rent for Arena This Year And No Profit Split with Cougars

10-Cent Meters 60 Days Away

Installation of parking meters charging 10 cents an hour will start in about 60 days, City Engineer James Garnett said yesterday.

The doubled rate will go into effect block-by-block as the new meters are installed, he said.

In one-hour zones the meters will take dimes, nickels and pennies.

Meters in two-hour zones will take the same denominations, and as an "added convenience" to people without the right change will also take quarters without yielding any extra parking time.

Pro Team Loss No Blow

Memorial Arena will get no professional hockey rental fee this year and there will be no profit split between the arena and Victoria Cougars, the Colonist learned yesterday.

According to informed sources the professional hockey team's operations will show a loss in excess of $10,000 for the 1960-61 season.

LOS ANGELES

The figures bear out an earlier statement by arena officials that loss of pro hockey will not be a serious financial blow to arena operations. Owners of the Victoria professional hockey franchise have announced they will move it to Los Angeles next season.

Arena commissioners have lost the calculated risk they took with the club last year when they agreed to take 11 per cent of the net profit for arena rental and split the rest 50-50.

Financial statements covering the club's operations up to the end of February showed a $4,538 loss and March scheduled games and the layoffs failed to improve the picture.

Although the team will bear the full operating loss, the arena will be deprived of $12,000 to $13,000 it has received from pro hockey rentals in previous years.

TOOK TOLL

During the 1958-59 and 1959-60 seasons the arena extracted its toll from gross receipts on a sliding percentage basis.

The commission entered into the new deal for the past season in an effort to avert loss of professional hockey here.

Direct Talks Urged with Ottawa On Malahat Home for Museum

* * *

No Thought of Pressure

* * *

An early start in direct negotiations with defence department officials aimed at the take-over of the present HMCS Malahat building on Wharf Street as a new home for the B.C. Maritime Museum was called for yesterday by a museum spokesman.

Commodore H. V. W. Groos, chairman of the museum board of directors, said there was no thought of "pressuring" Victoria's reserve naval division out of its present quarters to make way for the museum.

He added, however, that the directors would like an opportunity in the near future to negotiate terms with the defence department — "we just want the opportunity to talk things over and see if the move is feasible."

Earlier, the board of directors approved the move downtown "provided suitable alternate accommodation is found" for the reserve naval division and on condition that the building can be made available by Ottawa.

Formal statement of the museum directors' wish to move into the Malahat building was requested by the Chamber of Commerce, which is prepared to provide its backing.

SOUND ADVICE

Commodore Groos said the museum directors were indebted to the chamber for its "sound advice and good common sense" approach to the problem of gaining additional revenue from tourists.

Directors at a board meeting held this week approved the museum budget for the coming year of $9,748 and decided to advertise for applicants to fill the post of permanent curator at a salary of $3,900 a year.

The budget includes $3,250 in revenue from admissions, this year estimated at 13,000 compared with just over 9,000 last year.

Hahn Charges Contract Bias

George Hahn, Social Credit candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich, said last night that Ontario and Quebec get preferential treatment on federal shipyard contracts.

He said at Milnes Landing that B.C. has 10 per cent of Canada's population but got only two per cent of federal contracts.

School Board Denies Chant Ideas Ignored

Saanich school board last night denied charges that it disregarded recommendations contained in the Chant report when drawing up the $675,000 building bylaw for the school district.

Ratepayers on Saanich Peninsula will vote on the money bylaw for schools May 6.

School board chairman Reginald Sinkinson issued a brief prepared statement on behalf of the board. It did not refer to the joint council of ratepayers groups in the northern section of the district, which last week accused trustees of ignoring Chant recommendations in planning a new high school included in the program, but there appeared no doubt to which statements the board referred.

The statement said:

"The board of trustees of School District 63 wishes to state that the forthcoming bylaw program has been drawn up with due regard to current implementation of Chant report recommendations by the government and in line with the present policy of the department of education."

Canada A-Bomb Pivot

Canada is in the fateful position of determining whether the small countries of the world will have nuclear weapons or not, Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate David Groos said last night.

If Canada takes the lead in accepting membership in the "nuclear club," it will touch off an arms race among the smaller countries that could well end in world disaster, said Mr. Groos.

TO JUSTIFY

He said he feared the Conservative government would obtain nuclear weapons just "to justify the purchase" of other weapons in Canada's arsenal, which he said are useless without nuclear warheads.

Mr. Groos told his audience at Gordon Head Elementary School:

"I hate to think . . . of what might have happened in our hemisphere last week if Cuba had the bomb and thought the invaders were winning."

PLACED BLAME

He placed the blame for Canada's high unemployment figure squarely on the Conservative government.

He cited trade tariffs imposed by the government as a major contributor to the problem.

"We are a trading country—we must trade or die," said Mr. Groos.

Mooney Believes Ottawa Wrong In 'Declustering'

Ottawa may be making just as big a mistake removing its cluster lights as Victoria would be making if it banished its own antique lamp standards, Acting Mayor Millard Mooney said yesterday.

Asked to comment on reports Ottawa is removing its clusters with the wholehearted approval of the general public, the acting mayor said, "Who knows that this is good for Ottawa?"

DIFFERENT

Anyway, he went on, "Ottawa and Victoria are two entirely different propositions.

"Cluster lights are part of the beauty and one of the attractions of Victoria."

He said he is opposed to a public works committee recommendation that the city's picturesque cluster lights be replaced by mercury vapor lamps of vastly greater candlepower.

UP TOMORROW

The cluster light controversy is scheduled to come before city council again tomorrow in the form of a memorandum outlining two lighting proposals which would retain the 50-year-old standards.

One proposal will outline a gradual overhaul program for the clusters and a minimum mercury supplementary lighting system in part of the downtown area.

Second proposal will also embrace cluster overhaul but will make provision for a large scale supplementary system.

Crash Breaks Child's Rib

Iona Christianson, 11, of 1586 Rockland, suffered a broken rib and abrasions to her head, side and thigh yesterday morning when her bicycle collided with a bus at Cook and Rockland.

Monday afternoon a car driven by George McMillan of Swift Current, Sask., stopped on the Trans-Canada Highway for the Helmcken Road school crosswalk and a gravel truck driven by Leslie Charles Jones of Langford hit it from behind, glanced off and hit a car stopped beyond the intersection.

Unhappy Pedestrian Threatens Litterbug

A Jaycee litterbug nearly got cuffed by an angry pedestrian yesterday for his efforts to stimulate public interest in the Jaycee-sponsored Anti-Litter Week.

He was approached on a city street and told "we don't do things like that here," after he was caught nonchalantly piling refuse against the base of a utility pole only a few feet from a public trash can.

The complainer then realized it was a gimmick and became one of three persons who recognized the man as the Jaycee litterbug.

The three winners of two free tickets to the coming Jaycee fair were Mrs. E. Hamilton, 950 Ash; Mrs. T. Harrison, 298 Beach Drive, and R. Kay, 804 Reed Street.

Saanich Budget-Cutters Set Tentative Mill Rates

Saanich finance committee last night chopped $13,500 more from its 1961 budget and struck tentative mill rates.

In its second sitting, the committee brought a total reduction of $38,800 to the budget, now at $4,092,255.

For some homeowners the new mill rates will mean an increase in taxes. For others, it will mean a slight reduction.

Total tentative mill rates will be 41.03 for home owners in urban School District 61 and 41.51 in rural School District 63, an increase of 1.08 mills in district 61 and an increase of 14 mills in district 63.

Taxes will be up about $5, to $205, for a home assessed at $6,000 in district 61 and down about 70 cents, to $208, for a home assessed at the same value in district 63.

Pared last night were $5,000 for park maintenance, $1,000 for playground supplies, $3,000 for sidewalks, $4,500 for municipal yard construction and $5,000 for public works fringe benefits.

The new budget which will be recommended to council is $41,550.88 lower than the actual 1960 operating budget of $4,133,905.88.

In other actions last night, the finance committee turned down request for grants from the B.C. Agricultural Association and the Community Chest.

Saanich Man Found Dead in His Home

Scheduled to appear in city police court today to plead on a charge of impaired driving, a Saanich man was found dead in his home early yesterday.

Police said a 303 rifle lay beside the body of Albert E. Simon when it was found about 2:30 a.m. in the kitchen of his home at 3760 Cedar Hill.

When he appeared in city court Monday on the impaired charge, Simon was remanded to today for plea, and released on bail.

City officers said the charge arose from a minor collision Saturday evening on Johnson Street between Simon's car and one driven by Ingvard Petersen, 1180 Newport.

MAINLAND MADNESS: . . . or across the pond and into the fog.

We made one of our rare expeditions to the sin city Sunday and it struck us that a trip to Vancouver these days has only three things to commend it:

- Premier Bennett's excellent ferry service.
- The unusual experience of motorists and pedestrians driving and obeying traffic directions in a sane, safe way—something altogether unheard of here.
- The return to Victoria.

Our hosts took us to see Stanley Park, and there was indeed an experience.

We followed a line of traffic such as gathers on Douglas at 5 p.m. daily and drove through the park.

No, we couldn't stop. No parking places from one end to the other.

POPULAR POLL: One of the province's top Liberals tells me that his party is somewhat discouraged after paying for a popularity poll in the Esquimalt-Saanich riding. Results showed Conservative George Chatterton a good way out in front of Liberal David Groos.

DIFFERENT STORY: CCF leader Robert Strachan is making considerable political capital out of Health Minister Eric Martin's amazing statement last week that rather than the old saying that a strong opposition makes a good government, the reverse is the case.

Mr. Martin was piqued that the opposition had dared to question any of the government's actions during the recent session and said that the opposition had merely hindered the government which gets thing done.

Now Mr. Strachan is going around the countryside challenging Mr. Martin to come out and say what he really meant—"that he favors a one-party government as Hitler had, as Castro has, as Khrushchev has . . ."

It was odd that Mr. Martin chose this time to say what he did.

In the Esquimalt-Saanich byelection his own party—Social Credit—is advocating that there be a stronger opposition in Ottawa.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: How does a person tell her father-in-law to get some teeth in his mouth or stay home?

My husband's father needs dental attention so bad it just makes me sick. Most of his teeth are missing and the ones he has left should come out. There are so many things he can't eat I have to prepare special dishes for him whenever he comes to dinner.

I've begged my husband to tell him, but he says a person's teeth don't affect his character and his father is a wonderful man and he would not hurt his feelings for the world.

Last night, after watching him gum his dinner, I decided to leave it to you, Ann. If my husband refuses to say anything should I be the one?—CAN'T TAKE IT.

Dear Can't: By all means say something! It will be a favor that may add years to his life.

Teeth have nothing to do with character but they have a direct bearing on general health. Some folks die sooner than they should because they don't get proper nutrition—and their teeth are to blame. And gum infections due to decayed teeth can poison the entire system.

Don't tell him to get some teeth or stay home. Tell him you are making an appointment with a dentist and ask him which day is best: Tuesday or Friday. Then see to it that he keeps the appointment—even if it means escorting him personally to the dentist's office.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a high school senior who has a steady boy friend. He's a college sophomore in this city.

He asked me to fix up his buddy for a Saturday dance so I called a girl friend of mine. She was very pleased.

They doubled with us, but broke away at about 11.00—just left the dance and said they'd rather talk. I didn't like the looks of it but I said nothing.

The next morning my girl friend's mother phoned my mother and she was in a rage. She said her daughter didn't get home until 4.30 a.m., her clothes were all wrinkled and she had been drinking. She told my mother I must go with a bunch of bums and that I ought to be watched. My mother is mad at me. Am I to blame for this?—NANCY.

Dear Nancy: When a girl arranges a date for a friend she is not obliged to serve as her chaperone. You are responsible for your own conduct and no one else's.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: What should a daughter-in-law call her mother-in-law? This girl has been in our family for three years and she's still referring to me as "Hey you."

Would it be wrong if I took her aside and asked her to call me something else? My husband says not to make an issue of it but I think it's time I brought this to her attention.

She has a mother so I can understand her not wishing to call me THAT although some daughters-in-law do and it sounds very nice. I want the go signal from you before I say anything.

How shall I word it?—IRRITATED.

Dear Irritated: Word it this way: "I wish you'd call me by my name. It's Myrtle. Or if you'd like to call me Mother Myrtle, that would be fine, but please, not 'Hey you'."

Women Join Fight For More Schools

By DOROTHY WROTNOWSKI

Apathy to the Saanich School Building bylaw is in for a big jolt.

Tonight at Mt. Newton Junior High School 100 women will receive kits and information for a week-long canvass of District 63.

The bylaw, defeated three times previously, is coming up for vote on May 6, and the women of Saanich have joined in the fight to get more schools in Saanich. Many of them are mothers of students those most keenly concerned.

FULL SUPPORT

The "Schools for Saanich Campaign" committee has been formed. Three members, Mrs. K. Stanlake, Mrs. W. A. Porter and Mrs. D. A. MacLean have plenty to say about why they are going out in full support of the building program.

All mothers of young students, they say they want to see that children in Saanich have adequate educational opportunities.

INCREASING

They all say that overcrowding has reached utmost capacity and with the school population increasing 10 per cent every year the problem is fast becoming out of hand.

At present there are approximately 800 students on the swing shift at Mt. Newton Junior High School and a few at Beaver Lake Elementary School.

The mothers say they don't like this swing shift at all.

FAMILY SPLIT

They cited one family where one child attended morning shift at Beaver Lake, another the afternoon session at the same school, and the third child attended afternoons at Mt. Newton.

Mrs. Stanlake's three children attend different schools.

Morning shifts are from 8 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and afternoons from 1 to 5.30 p.m.

FEAR DARK

Members of the committee all voiced concern about children attending shifts leaving homes before daylight in the mornings and coming home after dark and when traffic is heaviest in the evening. "We worry about teen-age daughters walking, sometimes quite a distance, in the pitch black dark of a winter evening," said Mrs. MacLean. Another worry is that students attending shifts lose a month or more of regular school time.

TIME LOSS

Mrs. Porter and Mrs. Stanlake said that many objections had been raised about home economic rooms and gymnasiums being included in the proposed new school at Cordova Bay. They explained that as these subjects are included in the school curriculum students would have to go to Royal Oak if these rooms were not included. This would increase the cost of transportation and the students would lose an hour's school time in travelling, they said.

COSTS

Fear of increased taxes has been a big stumbling block to the bylaw, Mrs. Stanlake said. "People are wrong about this," she said. "Transportation costs were $13,000 more last year than the year before and the rise will be even greater under present conditions," she added.

The main objective of the canvass is to answer questions and to tell the residents why they think Saanich is in almost dire need of more schools, committee members state.

60th Year of Work Reported at Meeting

The Family and Children's Service celebrated its 60th anniversary last week with an annual meeting held in St. Luke's parish hall.

Reports were given concerning the agency itself, its growth and services, which include marriage and family counselling, emergency aid, protection of children, foster home care for children separated from their own families, services to unmarried mothers, adoption placements, and participation in planning many other community services to such special groups as retarded, delinquent and disturbed children and unemployed persons.

The report on the Fred Landsberg Sunshine Camp, which was organized in 1926, stated that each year camp periods are reserved for pensioners, blind persons, physically handicapped, young girls, and mothers and children. In 1961 they hope to add a holiday for retarded children.

B.C.'s first treatment service for emotionally disturbed children, Sevenoaks, is the only one in Canada operating as part of a casework agency. It is expected that in 1961 the centre will be able to give living-in treatment to 16 emotionally ill children.

Last year was the first year of operation for the marriage counselling service, designed to meet the need of couples who cannot, without help, find happiness in their marriages. It is the first casework service of the agency to accept fees.

During the year Family Service aided 1,034 people with revenues of $29,050.25 and expenditures of the same amount. Children's Service aided 104.612 with revenue and expenditures of $270,873.42. Sunshine Camp was visited by 372 people. Receipts were $12,911.45 and disbursements, $12,886.81.

Executive director is David E. Woodsworth; honorary president, Mrs. C. D. Schofield; president, W. D. Osborn; first vice-president, Miss C. Holmes; second, R. F. G. Green; treasurer, Hershell Smith and secretary, B. A. Tobin.

Mrs. A. McVie Heads Club

Mrs. A. McVie was elected president of the Esquimalt Golden Age Club at the recent meeting held in the Community Hall.

Other officers elected were Mrs. F. Francis, vice-president, Mrs. R. Culverwell, second vice-president, Mrs. W. Strawson, secretary, Mrs. J. Hodnett, treasurer, and Mrs. Culverwell, social convener.

Bottled Blondes

Sign of Neurosis

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—If your hair has turned platinum blonde the artificial way and you're not a model or a showgirl but a secretary or a housewife it could be you're sporting one of the tell-tale signs of neurosis.

The beauticians won't like it, but Dr. Leonard L. Lovshin claims artificial colored platinum blonde hair is most often affected by neurotic women.

But Lovshin has more than bottled blondes on the hook. Also suspect with him in the neurotic department are elderly ladies who find it necessary to color their grey hair jet black.

The head of internal medicine at Cleveland Clinic airs his hair views in a report in "Consultant," a publication for doctors.

NOT INFALLIBLE

The tell-tale "physical" signs of neurosis cited by Lovshin are reviewed as an assist to doctors doing diagnostic work ups.

He warns that none of the signs is infallible.

Lovshin figures the following also are rather common and dependable signs of emotional trouble:

—Overplucked and painted eyebrows on a patient who isn't an entertainer or a model.

DARK GLASSES

—Wearing dark glasses when the sun is not out, especially if the day is dark and gloomy. This reportedly is a custom commonly indulged in by highly emotional people.

—The wearing of tinted lenses in ordinary cheaters.

—The whining or weepy voice.

—A positive bad teeth sign in a person able to pay a dentist. This means fright and therefore indicates a highly nervous disposition.

—Blushing, flushing of the neck, and cold feet.

Lovshin urges doctors to watch too, for the heavy perspiration sign during examination.

SIGHING

Tense, anxious patients, it seems, soak the sheet on the examination table with perspiration.

Lovshin suggests, further, that doctors listen for the sighing patient. He maintains a person who sighs most of the time probably is trying to carry the world's weight on his or her shoulders.

"The wisest physician and most accurate diagnostician is the one who uses plenty of common sense, and who is sensitive, high strung and nervous himself," Lovshin concluded.

Tremendous Changes Seen In Five Years in Africa

By TERRY FRENCH

A term that sounds unmistakably British but is African is bringing about changes in Africa.

A "Courtesy Campaign" in practice all over Africa is bringing about an increasing awareness of Africans as persons, and a change in the social climate of the towns.

This change has been seen first hand by a family just returned after five years' missionary work in Northern Rhodesia.

Rev. and Mrs. F. R. Murray Anderson and their three sons returned to Canada last week, and Mrs. Anderson came on to Victoria with two of her sons, to be joined today by Mr. Anderson and their third son, who have been in Toronto, for a few days.

In a chat with Mrs. Anderson, I heard of the life in a small "Boma" or government administration station in the Serenje district of Northern Rhodesia, where Mr. Anderson's "parish" included the Lala tribe, in an area of 3,300 square miles.

Along with another 30 Europeans on the Boma, Mrs. Anderson lived in a house with kerosene pressure lamps and water had to be pumped up to the tank above the house for use.

Living there, in an extremely hot and arid land, with the nearest doctor 50 miles away "is an experience we'll never forget," she said.

But it is not with regret that she says this, for she is filled with stories reflecting not a complaining nature, but an understanding and Christian attitude.

In speaking of the courtesy campaign, Mrs. Anderson stated that there are now laws that Africans must be served in hotel bars and dining rooms and must be admitted into picture shows. She recounts a tale of her first days in Africa, when she would go into a shop in the village to buy provisions.

"The shopkeeper would look over the heads of five or six Africans in front of me and say 'And what do you want to buy?' and I was put in the position of saying 'Oh no, these people were ahead of me.'" She goes on to say that her politeness would go unnoticed and the shopkeeper would insist on serving her. Thus she must either be served or walk out of the store.

"Before we left, we could feel a difference in the towns, which we would visit only every few months. There were signs in the windows advocating the practice of courtesy to each other."

"It's such a simple practice . . . but their lives may depend on it," Mrs. Anderson said, thoughtfully.

Of their time in Northern Rhodesia, the Andersons spent three years getting to know the language and customs and the people. The language of area was Chilala, which she learned to a degree to help her husband in his work, to help the women of the area, and to set up Sunday School lessons.

Their work was done in conjunction of the Christian Council's Malcolm Moffitt Teacher Training College which is staffed by eight Europeans, and at present teaches about 140 students.

BARRIERS DOWN

Questioned as to any interdenominational stresses or problems in Africa, Mrs. Anderson told of an incident which to her typifies the Christian attitude there.

"Our youngest son was run over by the Landrover a while back, and we thought he was dying. We called to a neighbor that we were going on to the hospital, and to please pray for us. The neighbor, a Catholic, ran to the church, where the priests said mass prayers for the child.

Then she ran to the Training College, and joined in prayers there.

In Africa the barriers are down and basic principles of Christianity blend without the superficial differences."

Their son, Neil, has completely recovered from the mishap.

Concerning the tension in Africa now, Mrs. Anderson, in speaking of Northern Rhodesia said that the British have been endeavoring to train the Africans for responsible self-government and even now there are several African members of parliament.

"However, whatever happens," said Mrs. Anderson, "it will be too fast for their state of preparedness, and too slow for what they really want."

Rev. Anderson and son Douglas arrive in Victoria today.

He will, in June, travel to Oklahoma to attend summer school. Mrs. Anderson will remain in Victoria, where she will visit Mr. Anderson's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Murray Anderson, 2786 Heron Street, and her mother, Mrs. F. S. Patterson, 1426 Newport Avenue.

Years of Extra Life for Valuable Rugs and Carpets

Do you really know why rugs and carpets wear out? Constant use does dull their beauty by covering bright colors with dirt and grime. But far worse is the grinding away of the actual fibres from which the rug is made by sharp, gritty particles deep within the pile. This can be prevented only by professional "deep cleaning" as done by experts at the CARPETORIUM.

The people at the CARPETORIUM have the knowledge, use only the finest special cleaning agents and have the best equipment in Western Canada.

The cost is most reasonable and estimates are FREE. Phone the CARPETORIUM at EV 3-2861. Only the CARPETORIUM at 1210 Wharf St. can give your rugs and carpets the professional "deep cleaning" that will guarantee years of extra life.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BROUGHTON—In loving memory of my beloved wife, Joan, who passed away April 26, 1959.

Her thoughts were all so full of us.
She never would forget,
And so we know that where she is
She will be watching yet.

As angels keep their watch on high,
Please, God, just let her know
That we down here do not forget,
We love and miss her so.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

(The 18 deals played in the 1961 intercollegiate championship are being presented here daily. To re-play them in your own game, save this series.)

Here, in the penultimate hand of the Intercollegiate Championship, both sides again have a chance to make a par — but, in this case, according to the terms of the official par sheet, North and South can get their par only if East-West do not live up to their maximum opportunity. Since this method of awarding pars might seem inequitable, unduly penalizing a pair who have done no worse than others, no doubt consideration will be given to North-South pairs who do the best they can at their game contract, whether or not this results in failure.

It is extremely questionable whether North should open the bidding with his three bare tricks and 12-point count. But if he fails to do so, South will open one club. In any case, it is hoped that North-South will reach game in no-trump in spite of West's spade overcall.

When played with South as declarer, East overtakes the spade queen with the ace to return his eight-spot, and South should not delay in winning the trick. The club ace and king reveal that, although the defenders do not have a trick in clubs, a fourth round will have to be won in dummy and declarer has no entry to his hand to get back for the fifth one.

The solution is to enlist the cooperation of the enemy. South leads a third spade to put West in. If West continues spades, a club is discarded from dummy and the road is cleared to run the suit.

To forestall this play, West must refuse to cash a fourth spade. If, instead, he shifts to the jack of hearts, declarer will be unable to win more than eight tricks and East-West will gain a difficult par.

$1,600,000 Job

Firm Orders Steel 'Trees'

A $1,600,000 job for the Nanaimo shipbuilding and engineering firm of H. Madill & Sons, Ltd., was announced by J. V. Clyne, board chairman of MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River at the company's annual meeting yesterday.

* * *

The contract is for 21 portable steel spar trees and their undercarriages, in which the Nanaimo firm specializes.

Mr. Clyne, said these steel spars were being used extensively by his firm in place of the old spar tree. The portable steel spar saved considerable time in rigging and was more manoeuvrable.

RALPH M. SHAW

LOG HAULING BARGE

This was only one of several large capital expenses being made this year by MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River in Vancouver Island this year.

Mr. Clyne said he expected to take over the world's largest log-carrying barge within the next few weeks. It was now under construction in the Esquimalt yard of Yarrows Ltd at a cost of $800,000. It would move logs in open water and could carry 1,500,000 board feet at a time.

EXPANSION, ALTERATION

More than $8,500,000 was being spent by the company on its Alberni expansions and alterations, and on a new hydraulic barker at Chemainus.

"The construction work on these projects is creating jobs for hundreds of people in British Columbia and elsewhere," said Mr. Clyne. "It is the policy of the company wherever possible to place orders with B.C. or Canadian firms in order to stimulate employment."

Mac-Powell Names Shaw

Ralph M. Shaw, former president of MacMillan & Bloedel, was appointed president of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River at a meeting of the directors, following the annual general meeting in Vancouver Tuesday. He takes the place of M. J. Foley who resigned recently.

Two other changes announced were the retirement of H. R. MacMillan as honorary chairman of the board and of Harold S. Foley as vice-chairman. Both will continue as directors of the company.

NANAIMO (CP)—With the annual "please-use-your-ash tray" season just around the corner, 125 forest fire researchers today begin a two-day technical conference on Canada's worst summer-time hazard.

They will discuss what to do about the average of 5,000 fires each year, most of them in northern forests where access is difficult and losses are high.

The researchers — animal biologists, silviculturists, physicists and aircraft engineers — from throughout Canada and the United States will consider such things as the use of a new compound with a seaweed component to douse fires from an aircraft.

Authorities say there is no accurate way of calculating the losses from forest fires. But they add that billions of dollars worth of evergreens and broad-leaf hardwoods go up in smoke each summer throughout North America.

They say about 40 per cent of fires are caused by humans and one problem is that as the recreation-seeking population goes further into the wilderness, the number of such fires may increase.

B.C. forest department officials say that scientists today are attempting to correct the imbalances of nature caused by pioneer farmers and miners who, when they wanted to clear a patch of land, threw a burning stick into the undergrowth.

The next break-through in the forest fire problem is expected to be an accurate system of fire weather forecasting.

Brandon Packers

Strike Probe Linked To Conspiracy Trial

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—A. L. Wudel, former general manager of Brandon Packers Ltd., testified Tuesday he asked that the company's balance sheets be changed to avoid embarrassment during a judicial inquiry into a six-month strike at the plant last year.

Wudel testified at a preliminary hearing of conspiracy charges against Toronto businessmen Hugh Paton and Hubert Cox he made the request for the change in the balance sheets Aug. 2, 1960, in a letter to Neil Gough, former president of Great West Saddlery Ltd., Toronto.

The changes he proposed involved two items, of $44,259 and $98,828, shown in the original balance sheets received from the company's auditors as money to be paid to Great West Saddlery, Brandon Packers "parent firm." The amounts consisted mainly of unpaid portions of management fees for 1958 and 1959, respectively.

Wudel suggested these amounts be listed under the general heading of accounts payable, without specifying they were due.

He told Gough it might be "somewhat embarrassing—although both amounts are quite legal"—if the packing house workers' union made reference to these payments to the strike inquiry.

'Sir' for Magistrate Caldough's Desire

VANCOUVER (CP)—Interchanges of wit continued to highlight testimony Tuesday at a preliminary hearing of fraud charges against three men and four companies in connection with an alleged northern mining stock swindle involving more than $385,000.

Charged are George Caldough, 31, self-styled boy promoter, Roland Smith and Leonard Udell and Eagle Plains Development Limited, Eagle Plains Exploration Limited, Mount Baker Investments Limited and Great Northwest Investments Limited.

And as in earlier exchanges, the humor crept into the hearing during cross-examination of prosecution witnesses by Caldough, who acted as his own counsel because he said he could not afford to hire a lawyer.

As the hearing adjourned until today, Caldough thanked Magistrate Les Bewley for his patience, adding, that during the hearings in London, England, the magistrate conducting the case had been knighted.

"I just hope you receive the same honor, your worship. I think you deserve it."

REBEL LEADERS FLEE ALGERIA REVOLT ENDS

Cuba 'Catch' Hits 1,000 Reds Pour In Supplies

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuba claimed yesterday that "approximately 1,000" men of the invasion force have been captured and demanded that the remainder surrender.

Manuel Prado, president of Peru, joined other heads of Latin American countries in an appeal that Premier Castro "suspend the firing squad executions." But the tone of Cuban broadcasts gave little hope.

The Russians, meanwhile, poured thousands of tons of goods into Cuba to meet growing shortages. An official broadcast said that 30,000 tons was landed at Havana yesterday from the "socialist countries."

Give U.S. Time To Ruin Castro Kennedy Appeal

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has assigned the top agencies of his administration the job of figuring out a new strategy for destroying "Castroism" in Cuba.

He has taken on himself the task of winning from Republican leaders a moratorium on domestic political argument which could wreck the new attempt before it was launched.

NOBODY KNOWS

High officials privately concede neither Kennedy nor anyone else in Washington knows what the next move against Fidel Castro will be.

Many plans are under consideration, ranging from direct U.S. military action — now highly unlikely—to imposition of inter-American political sanctions, which U.S. officials desire.

STOP DOGFIGHT

But basic to the future, in Kennedy's view, is the need to prevent a Republican-Democratic dogfight over the recent failure from wrecking future operations.

To that end Kennedy has conferred with Dwight Eisenhower, Richard Nixon and other leading Republicans.

NEAR-DISASTER

Highly-placed informants said Kennedy told them Castro's defeat of U.S.-backed rebel forces was a setback of almost disastrous proportions for U.S. policies toward Cuba.

Two sets of studies are under way. One is concerned with a resurvey of U.S.-Cuban relations looking toward the destruction of Castro's rule.

HELPED TRAIN

The other goes more directly into the operation of the Central Intelligence Agency, which is reported to have helped train and equip the 1,200-man Cuban rebel force.

Possible lines of action:

- Naval blockade—In Kennedy's view this would be an act of war and probably not very effective.
- Economic embargo — a partial embargo is in effect.
- Direct military intervention—U.S. officials are extremely reluctant to do this.
- A new anti-Castro operation by Cuban refugees — it must be properly organized and supported on a large scale.
- Inter-American sanctions.

Bomarcs Ready In Fall

OTTAWA (CP)—Launching equipment for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile is now being installed at the Canadian sites at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., informed sources said Tuesday.

The North Bay base is expected to be operational about November and the La Macaza base about six to eight weeks later.

MAIN QUESTION

The main question, however, in connection with the Bomarc—whether it will carry a nuclear warhead — has not yet been answered.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said the Bomarc can't achieve its full effectiveness without a nuclear warhead. Defence Minister Harkness has said that Canadians should not expect their military forces to be equipped with inferior weapons.

MILITARY VIEW

In the military view a nuclear warhead would be required on the Bomarc to detonate in the air the hydrogen bomb carried by a bomber. Otherwise the bomb would explode on the ground when the bomber crashed, thus causing enormously more radio-active fallout.

Mercy Flight Saves Diver From Bends

CAMPBELL RIVER—A wave-skimming mercy flight yesterday whisked a diver suffering a severe case of the bends from a Seymour Narrows salvage operation to a decompression chamber in Vancouver.

The diver, Jack Thompson, 22, of Vancouver and formerly of Campbell River, was spending the night in the chamber—possibly a total of 18 hours—to slowly adjust his body to normal pressure after a too-quick 250-foot ascension from the sea floor.

SUNKEN TUG

A rising current apparently prevented normal ascent from the water when he and companion John Humphries were attempting to salvage a sunken tug off Race Point, six miles north of Campbell River.

When Thompson surfaced, Humphries took his companion to nearby Elk Falls mill for aid.

DIVER BLEEDING

B.C. Airlines sent pilot Gordon Wilkinson who took aboard the diver and a doctor and flew to Vancouver at about 30 feet above the water to avoid aggravating the victim's internal pressure.

The pilot said the diver was conscious during the trip but was bleeding internally.

GEN. MAURICE CHALLE
... 'brains' muzzled

De Gaulle Strength Prevails

ALGIERS (AP) — The generals' revolt that pushed France to the brink of civil war collapsed Tuesday in the surrender of its leaders and the despair of die-hard civilian settlers.

The end came with dramatic suddenness with the surrender of Gen. Maurice Challe while about 50,000 people milled on the giant forum square of Algiers, seething with rage and battling gendarmes.

DESPONDENT

Challe made a last despondent appearance on the balcony of the government building with Gen. Raoul Salan at his side. Then the two disappeared inside and were placed under arrest.

Challe, the brains of the insurrection, had already sent word to President de Gaulle in Paris he was "at the disposition of the government."

NO DETAILS

Then, dramatically, the French information agency announced that the two men had escaped. No details were given.

End of the revolt was hastened by de Gaulle's orders to wipe out the rebels with all means necessary — including warfare — to restore order.

Fate of Challe's fellow rebels remained in doubt, but those chiefly responsible may be executed as traitors.

SUICIDE RUMOR

The recaptured Algiers radio first had reported Salan had committed suicide but the general then made his appearance with Challe.

The generals were deprived of even a farewell speech to the massed thousands on the square.

The microphones on the balcony were dead and their words were lost in the tumult, shouting and confusion of the end to their desperate adventure which came about midnight.

RETURNED FIRE

In the final chaotic moments of the generals' revolt three gendarmes fell in the streets, wounded by fire from windows of surrounding apartments. The angry gendarmes returned the fire.

The paratroops who defiantly captured the government buildings Saturday were nowhere to be seen. They had pulled out of the centre of Algiers earlier, leaving the

Worker Survives 'Human Torch' Explosion, Fire

A father of two escaped serious injury last night when flaming naptha turned him into a human torch.

Taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with first and second degree burns to his arms, hands and face was Bill Donovan, 31, of 2780 Spencer, Langford Lake. He was released 90 minutes later after treatment, and went home.

SOLVENT IGNITED

Mr. Donovan was cleaning a sander in the servicing pit of Cunningham's Service Station, 5486 Patricia Bay Highway, when a spark from the machine ignited the cleaning fluid.

In trying to escape the flames, he tipped over a bucket of solvent, which immediately set his clothing afire.

TOWARD DOOR

He ran screaming from the pit toward the door of the service station.

"He managed to beat out most of the fire himself before he got to the door," related Allan Cunningham, son of the proprietor of the station.

ARMS SEARED

"We grabbed him and rushed him over to a barrel of oil and doused his hands, face and arms. Most of the hair of his head was singed off and his arms looked pretty seared," he said.

Mr. Donovan, a bodyman employed by Jameson Motors, was working on a customized car belonging to Gary Cunningham at the time of the accident.

SHOW ENTRY

"He was helping Gary get it ready for entry in a custom car show," said Chuck Cunningham, owner of the station.

"I was in the office and heard Bill scream. I ran out and saw the boys brushing out the flames.

DOUSED MOST

"I think Bill doused most of them himself.

Laos Reds Attack As 'Peace' Nears

LONDON (UPI)—Opposing forces in the Laotian civil war agreed Tuesday to a cease-fire as the first step toward settling their country's future.

The Royal Laotian government and the rival pro-Communist Pathet Lao announced acceptance of the joint British-Soviet appeal for a cease-fire preparatory to a 14-nation peace conference in Geneva May 12.

AS VICTORS

The Russian-supplied pro-Communist forces proposed an immediate meeting of the concerned parties and said they were approaching a settlement from "a position of victor."

British Foreign Secretary Lord Hume said an "actual cease-fire" is expected within the next few days."

PRESSING ON

The pro-Communist forces were reported pressing their offensive north of the Laotian capital of Luang Prabang pending receipt of the cease-fire order. This is forcing government retreats.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and President Sukarno of Indonesia joined Tuesday in pledging strong support for a neutral and independent Laos.

B.C. Woman at 102 Eyes Trip to Moon

VANCOUVER (CP)—Born in the horse-and-buggy days Mrs. Annie Bigland, who celebrates her 102nd birthday today, says she wouldn't mind a trip to the moon.

"I'd be as safe there as anywhere," said the alert and vigorous Scotswoman.

"They all think the world is going to be finished. Don't you believe such rubbish."

Congo Talks Shaken By Tshombe Stand

COQUILHATVILLE, Congo (UPI) — Katanga President Tshombe threatened today to quit the Congolese leaders' conference here unless central government President Kasavubu agreed to cease all co-operation with the UN.

The Katanga leader stormed out of the opening session yesterday after charging Kasavubu had bowed to UN pressure. His attack left the conference near collapse.

"I will come back," Tshombe said, "when you are ready to reply to my conditions."

They are that:

- Kasavubu denounce an accord with the UN to expel "harmful" foreigners and reorganize the national army and civil service.
- Participation in the conference be refused to Antoine Gizenga and other leftist leaders.

Old Balloon Bomb Found Near Duncan

DUNCAN—Remains of a wartime Japanese bomb was found in the woods behind Duncan Monday.

Weatherbeaten but almost intact, it was found among felled and bucked timber near Waterino Mountain in the Shawnigan logging division of Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. by logger Gordon Braithwaite of Duncan.

It was a section of a large type of incendiary bomb floated across the Pacific in great numbers by balloon.

A team of naval demolition experts from Victoria, called in Tuesday, found more apparatus that apparently fell off the bomb when it crashed, including a barometer used for releasing sandbags.

Mr. Braithwaite said he handled the bomb several times after finding it. He said it didn't worry him too much at the time, although RCMP said later it could possibly have exploded.

Spy Hearing Starts As RCMP Testify

MONTREAL (UPI) — RCMP officials testified for the crown yesterday as the preliminary hearing into the case of accused spy Tomasz Biernacki got under way.

The 37-year-old Polish hydraulics expert is charged under the official secrets act with supplying information to the Polish intelligence agency.

Special sessions Judge Peter Shorteno warned reporters at the opening of the hearing that certain aspects of the testimony could not be reported at this time without breaking a section of the criminal code. Newsmen, however, were allowed to be present throughout the day's event.

Testifying for the crown were Sgt. Andre Cote who said he took down two statements from the accused in the early morning of April 8 and later that same day; the arresting officer Sgt. Gustave Begalki who said he first made contact with Biernacki on the evening of April 7 and placed him under arrest April 9, and Cpl. Henry Robichaud who said he was with Begalki the evening Biernacki was first contacted and present during some of the subsequent questioning.

A fourth Mountie, special officer Sgt. John Janicki, was called to testify late this afternoon, but his testimony was postponed.

Shorteno adjourned the hearing until Thursday morning.

Cote said that the statements taken from Biernacki were in English.

Did Reds Steal Canada's Ming Sung Ships?

OTTAWA (CP) — Whatever became of the Ming Sung ships?

No one here seems to know. But it is assured most of the nine vessels, built in Canada, are steaming along Chinese waterways for Communist owners who didn't pay a nickel for them. In fact, it seems Canada has been stung for $14,470,310.

Payment of the last instalment for construction, with interest, is noted dryly in the annual report of the Export Credits Insurance Corp., tabled Tuesday in the Commons.

The story is this:

In 1946, when the Nationalist government still held China, a trading corporation known as the Ming Sung Industrial Co. Ltd. set up a Canadian subsidiary to have nine ships built in Lauzon, Que., yards.

Ming Sung managed to get a loan of $12,750,000, put up by three Canadian banks. The Chinese and Canadian governments guaranteed the loan.

Lauzon built the low draught vessels for river traffic in China.

Almost immediately after delivery, the ships simply vanished on the run between Canton, Macao and Hong Kong, presumably seized by the Reds, who had taken the mainland.

Ming Sung couldn't pay. Nationalist China defaulted. Ottawa was stuck.

Miniature Railroad for City?

City parks chairman Ald. Millard Mooney said yesterday he will recommend to his committee that they consider Holland Point as the site for a miniature railway.

He said two city businessmen have offered to underwrite the $10,000 deal to install a miniature steam locomotive which will pull cars carrying up to 24 children. The train would operate along 1,000 feet of track.

The backers of the scheme would operate the train and share revenue from it with the city, he said.

"They are interested only in getting their money back."

He will ask the parks committee to consider terms of an agreement with the prospective buyers of the train.

The engine, its cars and a station were built in Mission by a retired railroader.

No Hockey Rent for Arena This Year And No Profit Split with Cougars

10-Cent Meters 60 Days Away

Installation of parking meters charging 10 cents an hour will start in about 60 days, City Engineer James Garnett said yesterday.

The doubled rate will go into effect block-by-block as the new meters are installed, he said.

In one-hour zones the meters will take dimes, nickels and pennies.

Meters in two-hour zones will take the same denominations, and as an "added convenience" to people without the right change will also take quarters without yielding any extra parking time.

Pro Team Loss No Blow

Memorial Arena will get no professional hockey rental fee this year and there will be no profit split between the arena and Victoria Cougars, the Colonist learned yesterday.

According to Informed sources the professional hockey team's operations will show a loss in excess of $10,000 for the 1960-61 season.

LOS ANGELES

The figures bear out an earlier statement by arena officials that loss of pro hockey will not be a serious financial blow to arena operations. Owners of the Victoria professional hockey franchise have announced they will move it to Los Angeles next season.

Arena commissioners have lost the calculated risk they took with the club last year when they agreed to take 11 per cent of the net profit for arena rental and split the rest 50-50.

Financial statements covering the club's operations up to the end of February showed a $4,538 loss and March scheduled games and the layoffs failed to improve the picture.

Although the team will bear the full operating loss, the arena will be deprived of $12,000 to $13,000 it has received from pro hockey rentals in previous years.

TOOK TOLL

During the 1959-59 and 1959-60 seasons the arena extracted its toll from gross receipts on a sliding percentage basis.

The commission entered into the new deal for the past season in an effort to avert loss of professional hockey here.

Wrong Key Saves Firm $100 in Fine

DUNCAN—A typing error saved Doman's Transport of Duncan $100 in police court Tuesday. The firm, charged with hauling an overweight load, had been served with notice of a previous second conviction.

However, the notice dated the second conviction October, 1961, instead of 1960, and counsel for the firm refused to accept the notice as evidence. Magistrate A. C. Sutton agreed. Fine was $100 instead of a possible $200.

School, General Costs Frozen As Nanaimo Holds Line on Taxes

NANAIMO — A budget designed to hold the line on tax increases was adopted by city council Monday.

Aldermen approved a general purposes mill rate of 17.2 — an increase of just .2 over last year.

The budget amounted to $2,699,107, a rise of $500,000 over 1960. Finance chairman Ald. Haig Burns forecast that next year the city's budget will top the $3,000,000 mark.

Under the new budget school and general costs have been frozen. Increases result in hospital requirements and sewer bylaw funds. Ald. Burns reported the debt levy has increased from 8.4 mills to 12.5 mills this year. This reflects debt charges for the hospital construction bylaw.

Major sewer construction will require 18.5 mills. The school levy has been reduced from 20 mills to 19.3.

Ald. Burns stressed that Nanaimo will not be "standing still." In a few years residents will have streets in first class condition without feeling the pinch of higher taxation.

Lease Strip Of Reserve Band Urged

DUNCAN—The superintendent of the Cowichan Indian agency has recommended that the Cowichan Indian band consider leasing a portion of the reserve within the city limits for commercial purposes.

In a letter to Chief Louise Underwood, superintendent Fred Clark advised that applications were constantly being received by the Indian Affairs Branch to lease that portion of the reserve bounded by Cowichan River, Trans-Canada Highway, Trunk Road and the E & N right-of-way.

Mr. Clark said it would be of financial advantage to the band as a whole to attempt to relocate Indian residences from this area.

The land at the present time was not being utilized to the best possible advantage and would not be until such time as a zoning blueprint in conjunction with the city of Duncan was worked out, he said.

Mooney Believes

Ottawa Wrong In 'Declustering'

Ottawa may be making just as big a mistake removing its cluster lights as Victoria would be making if it banished its own antique lamp standards, Acting Mayor Millard Mooney said yesterday.

Asked to comment on reports Ottawa is removing its clusters with the wholehearted approval of the general public, the acting mayor said, "Who knows that this is good for Ottawa?"

DIFFERENT

Anyway, he went on, "Ottawa and Victoria are two entirely different propositions.

"Cluster lights are part of the beauty and one of the attractions of Victoria."

He said he is opposed to a public works committee recommendation that the city's picturesque cluster lights be replaced by mercury vapor lamps of vastly greater candle power.

UP TOMORROW

The cluster light controversy is scheduled to come before city council again tomorrow in the form of a memorandum outlining two lighting proposals which would retain the 50-year-old standards.

One proposal will outline a gradual overhaul program for the clusters and a minimum mercury supplementary lighting system in part of the downtown area.

Second proposal will also embrace cluster overhaul but will make provision for a large-scale supplementary system.

Crash Breaks Child's Rib

Iona Christianson, 11, of 1586 Rockland, suffered a broken rib and abrasions to her head, side and thigh yesterday morning when her bicycle collided with a bus at Cook and Rockland.

Monday afternoon a car driven by George McMillan of Swift Current, Sask., stopped on the Trans-Canada Highway for the Helmcken Road school crosswalk and a gravel truck driven by Leslie Charles Jones of Langford hit it from behind, glanced off and hit a car stopped beyond the intersection.

Unhappy Pedestrian Threatens Litterbug

A Jaycee litterbug nearly got cuffed by an angry pedestrian yesterday for his efforts to stimulate public interest in the Jaycee-sponsored Anti-Litter Week.

He was approached on a city street and told "we don't do things like that here," after he was caught nonchalantly piling refuse against the base of a utility pole only a few feet from a public trash can.

The complainer then realized it was a gimmick and became one of three persons who recognized the man as the Jaycee litterbug.

The three winners of two free tickets to the coming Jaycee fair were Mrs. E. Hamilton, 950 Ash; Mrs. T. Harrison, 298 Beach Drive, and R. Kay, 804 Reed Street.

Citizenship Meeting Set

Nothing Like Drive in Park Safe, Sane, Nowhere to Stop

MAINLAND MADNESS: ... or across the pond and into the fog.

We made one of our rare expeditions to the sin city Sunday and it struck us that a trip to Vancouver these days has only three things to commend it:

- Premier Bennett's excellent ferry service.
- The unusual experience of motorists and pedestrians driving and obeying traffic directions in a sane, safe way—something altogether unheard of here.
- The return to Victoria.

Our hosts took us to see Stanley Park, and there was indeed an experience.

We followed a line of traffic such as gathers on Douglas at 5 p.m. daily and drove through the park.

No, we couldn't stop. No parking places from one end to the other.

* * *

DIFFERENT STORY: CCF leader Robert Strachan is making considerable political capital out of Health Minister Eric Martin's amazing statement last week that rather than the old saying that a strong opposition makes a good government, the reverse is the case.

Mr. Martin was piqued that the opposition had dared to question any of the government's actions during the recent session and said that the opposition had merely hindered the government which gets thing done.

Now Mr. Strachan is going around the countryside challenging Mr. Martin to come out and say what he really meant—"that he favors a one-party government as Hitler had, as Castro has, as Khrushchev has . . ."

It was odd that Mr. Martin chose this time to say what he did.

In the Esquimalt-Saanich byelection his own party—Social Credit—is advocating that there be a stronger opposition in Ottawa.

When in Rome, we guess . . .

COLOR CONFUSION: What on earth is going on out there in the Esquimalt-Saanich by-election campaign?

First of all, it was the New Party which stole the green and white of Social Credit for its political propaganda. Now Social Credit has had posters printed in royal blue—color of the progressive Conservative party.

$1,600,000 Job

Firm Orders Steel 'Trees'

A $1,600,000 job for the Nanaimo shipbuilding and engineering firm of H. Madill & Sons, Ltd., was announced by J. V. Clyne, board chairman of MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River at the company's annual meeting yesterday.

* * *

The contract is for 21 portable steel spar trees and their undercarriages, in which the Nanaimo firm specializes.

Mr. Clyne said these steel spars were being used extensively by his firm in place of the old spar tree. The portable steel spar saved considerable time in rigging and was more manoeuvrable.

LOG-HAULING BARGE

This was only one of several large capital expenses being made this year by MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River in Vancouver Island this year.

Mr. Clyne said he expected to take over the world's largest log-carrying barge within the next few weeks. It was now under construction in the Esquimalt yard of Yarrows Ltd. at a cost of $900,000. It would move logs in open water and could carry 1,500,000 board feet at a time.

EXPANSION, ALTERATION

More than $8,300,000 was being spent by the company on its Alberni expansions and alterations, and on a new hydraulic barker at Chemainus.

"The construction work on these projects is creating jobs for hundreds of people in British Columbia and elsewhere," said Mr. Clyne. "It is the policy of the company wherever possible to place orders with B.C. or Canadian firms in order to stimulate employment."

EARTH'S TWIN

Earth's twin sister, Venus, is the closest planet to us, a mere 26,000,000 miles away.

RALPH M. SHAW

Mac-Powell Names Shaw

Ralph M. Shaw, former president of MacMillan & Bloedel, was appointed president of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River at a meeting of the directors, following the annual general meeting in Vancouver Tuesday. He takes the place of M. J. Foley who resigned recently.

Mr. Shaw since the amalgamation last year has been executive vice-president.

Two other changes announced were the retirement of H. R. MacMillan as honorary chairman of the board and of Harold S. Foley as vice-chairman. Both will continue as directors of the company.

Seaweed Weapon In War on Fires

By JOHN MATTERS

NANAIMO (CP)—With the annual "please use your ash tray" season just around the corner, 125 forest fire researchers today begin a two-day technical conference on Canada's worst summer-time hazard.

They will discuss what to do about the average of 5,000 fires each year, most of them in northern forests where access is difficult and losses are high.

The researchers — animal biologists, silviculturists, physicists and aircraft engineers — from throughout Canada and the United States will consider such things as the use of a new compound with a seaweed component to douse fires from an aircraft.

BILLIONS IN SMOKE

Authorities say there is no accurate way of calculating the losses from forest fires. But they add that billions of dollars worth of evergreens and broad-leaf hardwoods go up in smoke each summer throughout North America.

They say about 40 per cent of fires are caused by humans and one problem is that as the recreation-seeking population goes further into the wilderness, the number of such fires may increase.

B.C. forest department officials say that scientists today are attempting to correct the imbalances of nature caused by pioneer farmers and miners who, when they wanted to clear a patch of land, threw a burning stick into the undergrowth.

CYCLE UPSET

The resulting fire burned until extinguished by a rainstorm. Wild animals fled the area, the water cycle was upset and nature's other processes thrown into chaos.

The next break-through in the forest fire problem is expected to be an accurate system of fire weather forecasting. The step will be forecasting when and where high hazard conditions could be expected to occur, allowing time for fire-fighting crews to be alerted and equipment marshalled for the job.

Blood of 15 Men Saves Logger

COURTENAY—Fifteen fellow workers, volunteer firemen and air force personnel turned out late Monday to give blood to a logging mechanic injured in a bush accident.

Doctors were forced to amputate the left leg below the knee of Warren Bannerman, 42, who became entangled in choker lines at Comox Logging's Cruickshank Canyon operation nine miles from here. Volunteer donors showed up when repeated transfusions taxed regular blood supplies at Comox Hospital.

Bannerman was described as in "improved" condition yesterday.

An earlier plan to fly the injured man to Vancouver was abandoned because of the extent of injuries to his legs and the operation was performed here.

$8,800 Target For 'Army'

NANAIMO—Salvation Army Red Shield campaign for funds this year has been set at $8,800.

Frank Ney has been appointed as head of the campaign committee. Drive begins May 1 and will continue throughout the month.

Sewer, Lagoon Bylaws Before Voters on May 11

DUNCAN—Ratepayers in areas affected will be asked to approve two money bylaws May 11 calling for a total expenditure of $300,000.

A $250,000 sewer bylaw will provide for the installation and extension of the city sewer system as well as the construction of a lagoon type disposal system. Full details of the proposed installations have not been disclosed but it is known that plans call for the extension and improvement of services in the northwest and southeast sections of town.

The sewage lagoon, centre of controversy for some months, will be located on leased land on the Indian reserve east of the city limits.

Ratepayers will also vote on a $50,000 waterworks extension bylaw.

REBEL GENERALS ESCAPE
ALGERIA REVOLT COLLAPSES

Give U.S. Time To Ruin Castro Kennedy Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has assigned the top agencies of his administration the job of figuring out a new strategy for destroying "Castroism" in Cuba.

He has taken on himself the task of winning from Republican leaders a moratorium on domestic political argument which could wreck the new attempt before it was launched.

NOBODY KNOWS

High officials privately concede neither Kennedy nor anyone else in Washington knows what the next move against Fidel Castro will be.

Many plans are under consideration, ranging from direct U.S. military action — now highly unlikely—to imposition of inter-American political sanctions, which U.S. officials desire.

STOP DOGFIGHT

But basic to the future, in Kennedy's view, is the need to prevent a Republican-Democratic dogfight over the recent failure from wrecking future operations.

To that end Kennedy has conferred with Dwight Eisenhower, Richard Nixon and other leading Republicans.

NEAR-DISASTER

Highly-placed informants said Kennedy told them Castro's defeat of U.S.-backed rebel forces was a setback of almost disastrous proportions for U.S. policies toward Cuba.

Two sets of studies are under way. One is concerned with a resurvey of U.S.-Cuban relations looking toward the destruction of Castro's rule.

HELPED TRAIN

The other goes more directly into the operation of the Central Intelligence Agency, which is reported to have helped train and equip the 1,200-man Cuban rebel force.

Possible lines of action:

- Naval blockade—in Kennedy's view this would be an act of war and probably not very effective.
- Economic embargo — a partial embargo is in effect.
- Direct military intervention—U.S. officials are extremely reluctant to do this.
- A new anti-Castro operation by Cuban refugees — it must be properly organized and supported on a large scale.
- Inter-American sanctions.

Bomarcs Ready In Fall

OTTAWA (CP)—Launching equipment for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile is now being installed at the Canadian sites at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., informed sources said Tuesday.

The North Bay base is expected to be operational about November and the La Macaza base about six to eight weeks later.

MAIN QUESTION

The main question, however, in connection with the Bomarc—whether it will carry a nuclear warhead — has not yet been answered.

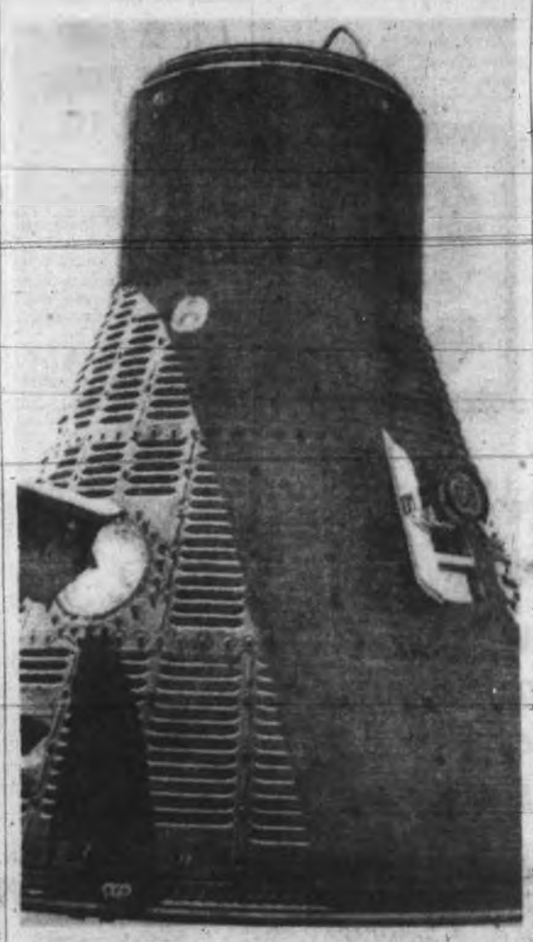
Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said the Bomarc can't achieve its full effectiveness without a nuclear warhead. Defence Minister Harkness has said that Canadians should not expect their military forces to be equipped with inferior weapons.

MILITARY VIEW

In the military view a nuclear warhead would be required on the Bomarc to detonate in the air the hydrogen bomb carried by a bomber. Otherwise the bomb would explode on the ground when the bomber crashed, thus causing enormously more radioactive fallout.

Police Given $8 Increase

VANCOUVER (CP) — City police here have been awarded a 1¾ per cent pay increase and certain fringe benefits. Constables will get $475 a month, up $8.



Space Bid Blows Up

U.S. rocket attempting to boost a robot astronaut into orbit yesterday veered off course and was destroyed. Scientists said a man would have survived the mishap.—(AP Photofax.)

Mercy Flight Saves Diver From Bends

CAMPBELL RIVER—A wave-skimming mercy flight yesterday whisked a diver suffering a severe case of the bends from a Seymour Narrows salvage operation to a decompression chamber in Vancouver.

The diver, Jack Thompson, 22, of Vancouver and formerly of Campbell River, was spending the night in the chamber—possibly a total of 18 hours—to slowly adjust his body to normal pressure after a too-quick 250-foot ascension from the sea floor.

SUNKEN TUG

A rising current apparently prevented normal ascent from the water when he and companion John Humphries were attempting to salvage a sunken tug off Race Point, six miles north of Campbell River.

When Thompson surfaced, Humphries took his companion to nearby Elk Falls mill for aid.

LOW LEVEL

B.C. Airlines sent pilot Gordon Wilkinson who took aboard the diver and a doctor and flew to Vancouver at about 30 feet above the water to avoid aggravating the victim's internal pressure.

The pilot said the diver was conscious during the trip but was bleeding internally.

'Alert' Officer Tags Cruiser Busy on Job

TORONTO (CP)—A motorcycle police officer was on the job Monday night. He tagged an unmarked police cruiser while two detectives were investigating a holdup.

GEN. MAURICE CHALLE

De Gaulle Strength Prevails

ALGIERS (AP) — The generals' revolt that pushed France to the brink of civil war collapsed Tuesday in the surrender of its leaders and the despair of die-hard civilian settlers.

The end came with dramatic suddenness with the surrender of Gen. Maurice Challe while about 50,000 people milled on the giant forum square of Algiers, seething with rage and battling gendarmes.

DESPONDENT

Challe made a last despondent appearance on the balcony of the government building with Gen. Raoul Salan at his side. Then the two disappeared inside and were placed under arrest.

Challe, the brains of the insurrection, had already sent word to President de Gaulle in Paris he was "at the disposition of the government."

NO DETAILS

Then, dramatically, the French information agency announced that the two men had escaped. No details were given.

End of the revolt was hastened by de Gaulle's orders to wipe out the rebels with all means necessary — including warfare — to restore order.

Fate of Challe's fellow rebels remained in doubt, but those chiefly responsible may be executed as traitors.

SUICIDE RUMOR

The recaptured Algiers radio first had reported Salan had committed suicide but the general then made his appearance with Challe.

The generals were deprived of even a farewell speech to the massed thousands on the square.

The microphones on the balcony were dead and their words were lost in the tumult, shooting and confusion of the end to their desperate adventure which came about midnight.

RETURNED FIRE

In the final chaotic moments of the generals' revolt three gendarmes fell in the streets, wounded by fire from windows of surrounding apartments. The angry gendarmes returned the fire.

The paratroops who defiantly captured the government buildings Saturday were nowhere to be seen. They had pulled out of the centre of Algiers earlier, leaving the

Worker Survives 'Human Torch' Explosion, Fire

A father of two escaped serious injury last night when flaming naptha turned him into a human torch.

Taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with first and second degree burns to his arms, hands and face was Bill Donovan, 31, of 2780 Spencer, Langford. Donovan was released 90 minutes later after treatment, and went home.

SOLVENT IGNITED

Mr. Donovan was cleaning a sander in the servicing pit of Cunningham's Service Station, 5486 Patricia Bay Highway, when a spark from the machine ignited the cleaning fluid.

In trying to escape the flames, he tipped over a bucket of solvent, which immediately set his clothing afire.

TOWARD DOOR

He ran screaming from the pit toward the door of the service station.

"He managed to beat out most of the fire himself before he got to the door," related Allan Cunningham, son of the proprietor of the station.

ARMS SEARED

"We grabbed him and rushed him over to a barrel of oil and doused his hands, face and arms. Most of the hair of his head was singed off and his arms looked pretty seared," he said.

Mr. Donovan, a bodyman employed by Jameson Motors, was working on a customized car belonging to Gary Cunningham at the time of the accident.

SHOW ENTRY

"He was helping Gary get it ready for entry in a custom car show," said Chuck Cunningham, owner of the station.

"I was in the office and heard Bill scream. I ran out and saw the boys brushing out the flames.

DOUSED MOST

"I think Bill doused most of them himself.

Laos Reds Attack As 'Peace' Nears

LONDON (UPI) Opposing forces in the Laotian civil war agreed Tuesday to a cease-fire as the first step toward settling their country's future.

The Royal Laotian government and the rival pro-Communist Pathet Lao announced acceptance of the joint British-Soviet appeal for a cease-fire preparatory to a 14-nation peace conference in Geneva May 12.

AS VICTORS

The Russian-supplied pro-Communist forces proposed an immediate meeting of the concerned parties and said they were approaching a settlement from "a position of victor."

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home said an "actual cease-fire is expected within the next few days."

PRESSING ON

The pro-Communist forces were reported pressing their offensive north of the Laotian capital of Luang Prabang pending receipt of the cease-fire order. This is forcing government retreats.

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Kennedy and President Sukarno of Indonesia joined Tuesday in pledging strong support for a neutral and independent Laos.

B.C. Woman at 102 Eyes Trip to Moon

VANCOUVER (CP)—Born in the horse-and-buggy days Mrs. Annie Bigland, who celebrates her 102nd birthday today, says she wouldn't mind a trip to the moon.

"I'd be as safe there as anywhere," said the alert and vigorous Scotswoman.

"They all think the world is going to be finished. Don't you believe such rubbish."

Congo Talks Shaken By Tshombe Stand

COQUILHATVILLE, Congo (UPI) — Katanga President Tshombe threatened today to quit the Congolese leaders' conference here unless central government President Kasavubu agreed to cease all co-operation with the UN.

The Katanga leader stormed out of the opening session yesterday after charging Kasavubu had bowed to UN pressure. His attack left the conference near collapse.

"I will come back," Tshombe said, "when you are ready to reply to my conditions."

They are that:

- Kasavubu denounce an accord with the UN to expel "harmful" foreigners and reorganize the national army and civil service.
- Participation in the conference be refused to Antoine Gizenga and other leftist leaders.

Spy Hearing Starts As RCMP Testify

MONTREAL (UPI) — RCMP officials testified for the crown yesterday as the preliminary hearing into the case of accused spy Tomasz Biernacki got under way.

The 37-year-old Polish hydraulics expert is charged under the official secrets act with supplying information to the Polish intelligence agency.

Special sessions Judge Peter Shorteno warned reporters at the opening of the hearing that certain aspects of the testimony could not be reported at this time without breaking a section of the criminal code. Newsmen, however, were allowed to be present throughout the day's event.

Testifying for the crown were Sgt. Andre Cote who said he took down two statements from the accused in the early morning of April 8 and later that same day; the arresting officer Sgt. Gustave Begalki who said he first made contact with Biernacki on the evening of April 7 and placed him under arrest April 9, and Cpl. Henry Robichaud who said he was with Begalki the evening Bernacki was first contacted and present during some of the subsequent questioning.

A fourth Mountie, special officer Sgt. John Janicki, was called to testify in the afternoon, but his testimony was postponed.

Shorteno adjourned the hearing until Thursday morning.

Cote said that the statements taken from Biernacki were in English.

Old Balloon Bomb Found Near Duncan

DUNCAN—Remains of a wartime Japanese bomb was found in the woods behind Duncan Monday.

Weatherbeaten but almost intact, it was found among felled and bucked timber near Waterloo Mountain in the Shawnigan logging division of Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. by logger Gordon Braithwaite of Duncan.

It was a section of a large type of incendiary bomb floated across the Pacific in great numbers by balloon.

A team of naval demolition experts from Victoria, called in Tuesday, found more apparatus that apparently fell off the bomb when it crashed, including a barometer used for releasing sandbags.

Mr. Braithwaite said he handled the bomb several times after finding it. He said it didn't worry him too much at the time, although RCMP said later it could possibly have exploded.

Did Reds Steal Canada's Ming Sung Ships?

OTTAWA (CP) — Whatever became of the Ming Sung ships?

No one here seems to know. But it is assured most of the nine vessels, built in Canada, are steaming along Chinese waterways for Communist owners who didn't pay a nickel for them. In fact, it seems Canada has been stung for $14,470,310.

Payment of the last instalment for construction, with interest, is noted dryly in the annual report of the Export Credits Insurance Corp., tabled Tuesday in the Commons.

The story is this:

In 1946, when the Nationalist government still held China, a trading corporation known as the Ming Sung Industrial Co. Ltd. set up a Canadian subsidiary to have nine ships built in Lauzon, Que., yards.

Ming Sung managed to get a loan of $12,750,000, put up by three Canadian banks. The Chinese and Canadian governments guaranteed the loan.

Lauzon built the low-draught vessels for river traffic in China.

Almost immediately after delivery, the ships simply vanished on the run between Canton, Macao and Hong Kong, presumably seized by the Reds, who had taken the mainland.

Ming Sung couldn't pay, Nationalist China defaulted, Ottawa was stuck.
